It’s Belleville High School,
The Pride of every student here.”

“Come on, you old grads, join with us young lads,”

Gary Gasawski practices for a delivery of Julius Caesar's speech before his sophomore English class.

Since writing of themes is emphasized in junior and senior English classes, Nancy Holeman works diligently to hand in her work on time.

The basic skills of English are

The most vital subject in each student's curriculum is English because it helps him to learn his other subjects. Proof of its importance is the four year prerequisite to graduation. The English course has two divisions: literature and grammar. In English classes the student is taught the spelling, usage, and meaning of words, how to express ideas in speaking and writing, and how to read and derive enjoyment from literary works.

To help students build their vocabularies, and to teach them composition skill, teachers require them to write numerous themes. In marking written work, the instructor strives not just to give grades, but also to point out errors so they can be corrected.

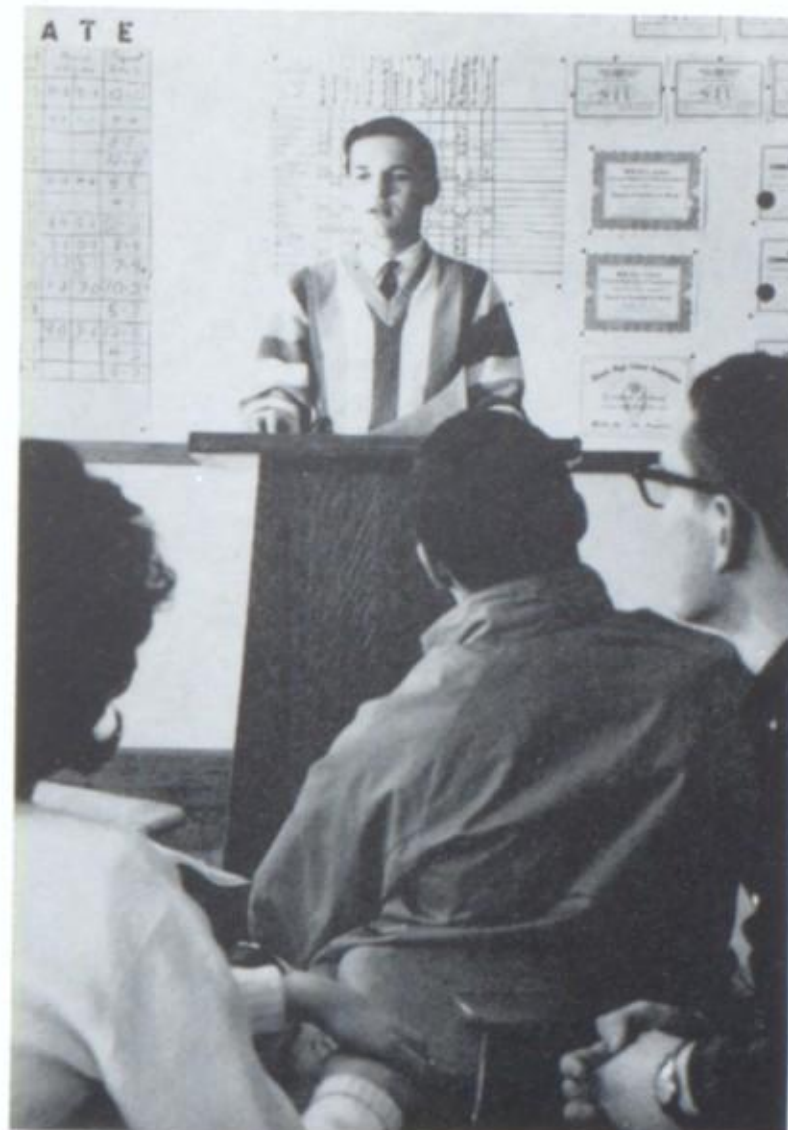

In the Reading Clinic, Miss McCann checks Linda Keller's eyes and Dwain Steppig practices speed reading.

Careful listening is also stressed in English classes. Here Mr. Saunders begins playing a recording of Macbeth for his English class. Mary Corneliussen waits to consult him on her theme about the play.

Ken Greenlee illustrates the fine points of speaking.

daily stressed in class.

The wide range of literature studied gives the student new outlooks and ideas. Outside of class, students read library books and then are required to express thoughtful opinions on the reading matter in the book reports which are required each year. To go beyond his own limited horizons, it is important for each student to enter the world of literature. It is also necessary for the students to be acquainted with the growth of literature and with its authors. This valuable information can be used by the student in the future when he seeks to evaluate his reading material. The reading of books is important, for it introduces the student to culture and richer enjoyment of life.

Dan Daubach, Mel Trotier, Lee Ann French, and Ruth Meng discuss the techniques of debating before they take part in a tournament.

Using the new French film-and-text course, Mr. Stover helps Nancy Greenwood and Randy Birdsell to improve their accents.

French students use the language laboratory.

Students of a second-year honors French class made masks showing various characters of Jean de la Fontaine's fable, Le Corbeau et le Renard. Showing the masks are, Michelle Fass, Patty Whitsell, Leslie Brooks, Linda O'Neill, and Cheryl Engler.

Foreign language study is the key to the understanding of people of other countries. It also helps us to better understand the grammar and usage of our own language. A main goal of learning other languages is to establish an over-all cultural and social bond with other peoples by studying the structure of the language and reading the literature of the people.

In the modern study of languages, more and more emphasis is being placed upon the spoken word. Government grants are given to individual schools so that they can establish language laboratories. This year, a modified lab is in use for the first time at BTHS. About one hundred and forty first-year French students are using it. Through regular use of new lip-synchronized color films, tapes, texts, and oral drills, students gain an over-all, natural contact with the language. By seeing films of real-life situations and by learning what is said in these situations, the students learn to speak French in the same way they learned to speak English, by hearing it.

French, German, and Spanish are the modern languages taught at B.T.H.S. Now the student may take four years of his chosen language. If the student chooses to do this, upon completion of high school he will have basic knowledge of the language. Should he visit the country speaking the language he studied in high school, chances are good that he will be able to converse with its people.

However, being able to speak a language is not the only value of foreign language study. The student is also taught to read and a new and rich literature is opened to him. The student can read foreign books with the meaning intact and little lost in translation.

Latin can also be taken for four years. However, the goals of studying Latin are not the same as those of studying a modern language. Because Latin is no longer spoken, all emphasis is placed on reading. The Latin student learns to dissect sentences and to ferret out their meanings. He reads works of Julius Caesar, Cicero, Ovid, and Virgil, and learns about the Roman civilization and about its influence on our lives.

Larry Burro decorates the Spanish room by hanging a travel poster.

Spanish, German, and Latin are taught here.

Senior Shelia Barber, dressed as a Roman patrician, explains Roman customs to a freshman Latin class.

Students learn about

The student who has a wide knowledge of social studies is an informed, alert student. He is aware of the world around him. The learning of social studies provides the student with an understanding of man and his environment. He learns of man in his various stages of progress from earliest to modern man. His study goes back to the very roots of society, to the ancient civilizations and their way of life. Through his quest for facts, the student learns that the past is not emphasized for its own sake, but as a key to the future.

Through geography, he discovers the physical characteristics of the world and inquires about the earth as a home of man. He is informed of man's advancement, through both the mistakes and the improvements of the past as he studies world and American history.

Mr. Gilligan, with the aid of graph, explains the function of supply and demand to an economics class.

Miss Payne, assistant librarian, helps Jim Clemans, Nancy Bott, Judy McCann, Frank Rogers (seated) and Margo McKinley use the conference library for magazine reports.

Civics students, Janet Heskett and Phil Holeman, learn about our great country's history in viewing the flag of the United States of America.

man's past and present.

History teaches him about the lives of men and women and gives him an understanding of current affairs. As he learns of past events, he gains a better knowledge of his own age. This comprehension is furthered by the study of international relations. The association between nations, their differences and agreements, and their alliances and treaties are explored through this course. Through economics, which is the science of wealth, production, and distribution, and sociology, the study of man's human relationships, the student learns of the various systems which operate in society. Another system about which the student learns is the governmental foundation of societies. By thoroughly exploring the social studies field, he realizes that knowledge creates understanding.

Miss Kriege points out an item of interest to her world history class.

Giving a report to a geography class on the island of Hawaii, Carole Brewer shows a product of the new state as she holds a pineapple-embossed monkey pod plate.

Holding a copy of the Declaration of Independence, Mr. Turner tells his class of its background.

Jim Thomas and Jane Ruhmann experiment with the Halogen family of elements.

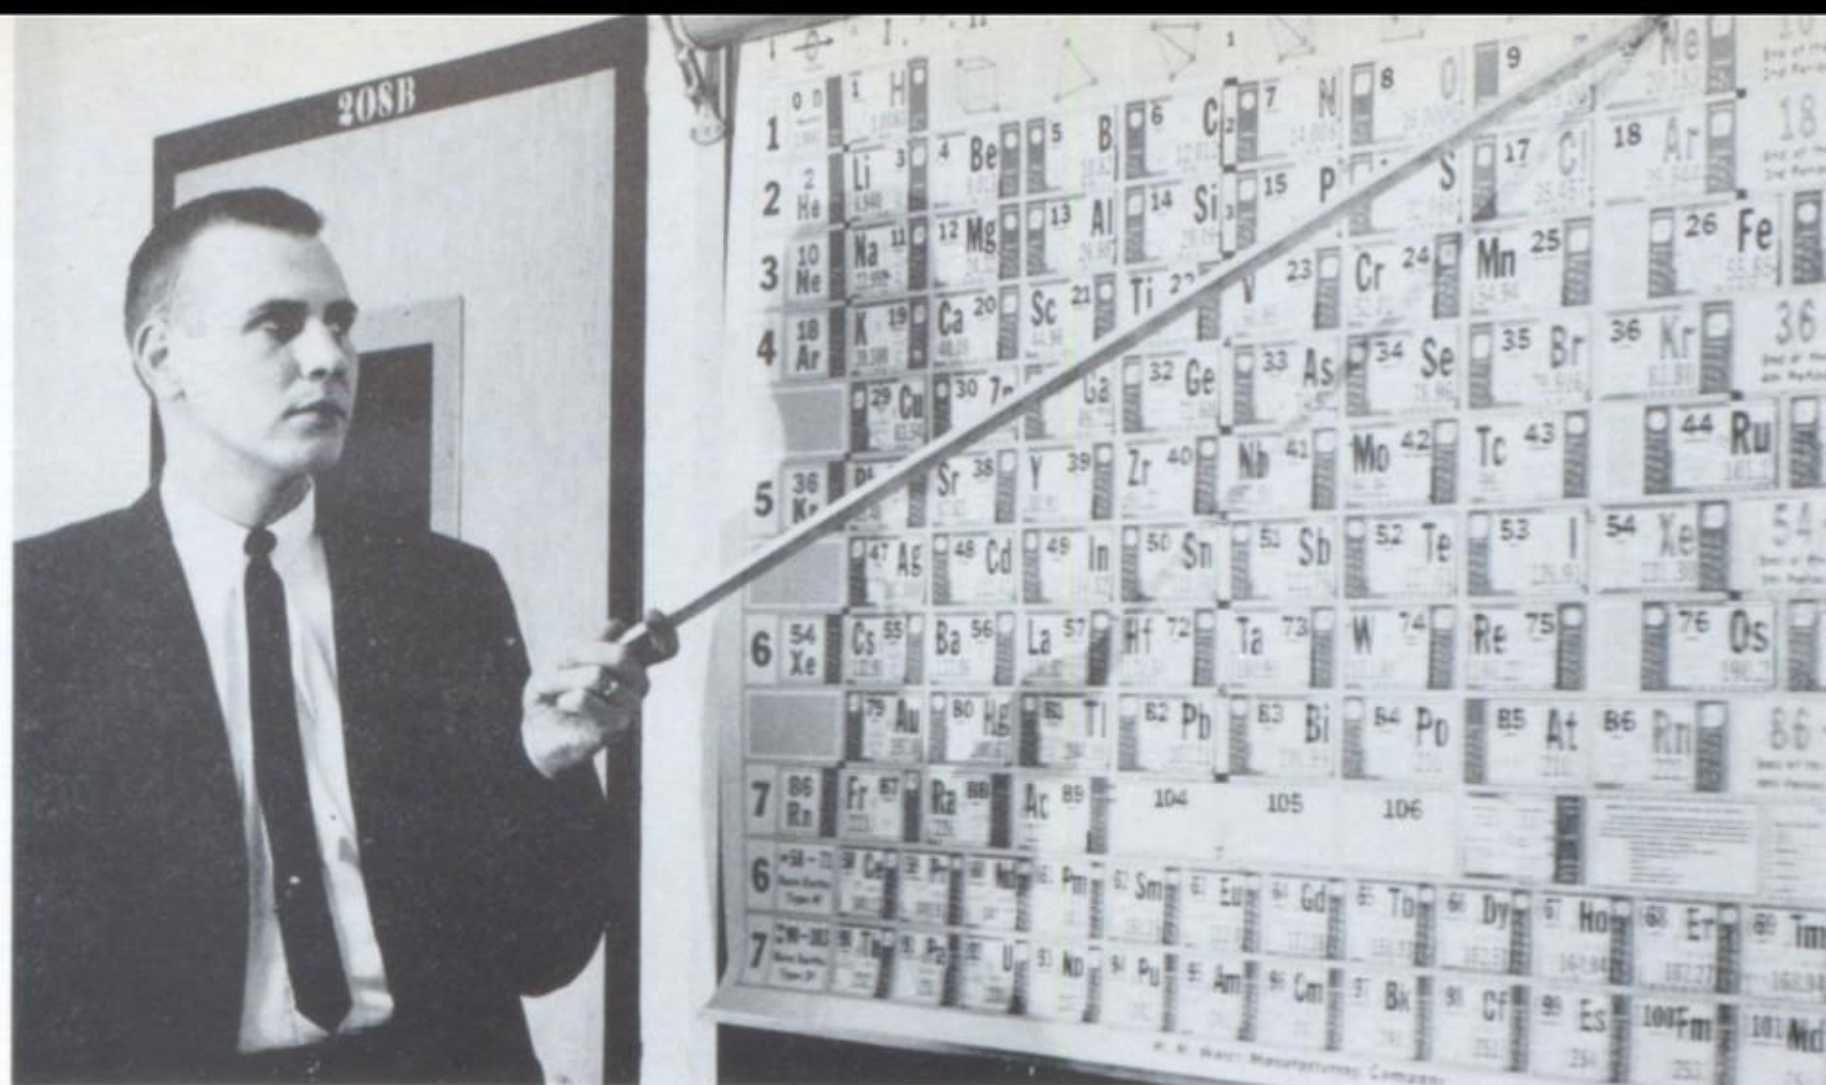

John Matthews and Kathy McSherry study the structure of flowers. Biology uses many of these models.

Our science program includes up-to-date equipment, text books, and teaching procedures. The department offers courses in general science, geography, physiography, biology, physics, and chemistry. Biology includes plant and animal study. Visual aids and diagrams guide the students in their study. Our world potentials are given a realistic study in the physics labs. Students learn about gravity, motion, weight, and force. For the first year BTHS has a course in physics with teaching procedure recommended by Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Chemistry introduces the student to the elements of the earth and the "how" and "why" of life. Modern methods and inquiring students keep our science department in pace with progress.

Marilyn Zupsich experiments with a battery-powered car in P.S.S.C. physics.

Mr. Massey impresses upon his students the importance and usefulness of the periodic table throughout their study of chemistry.

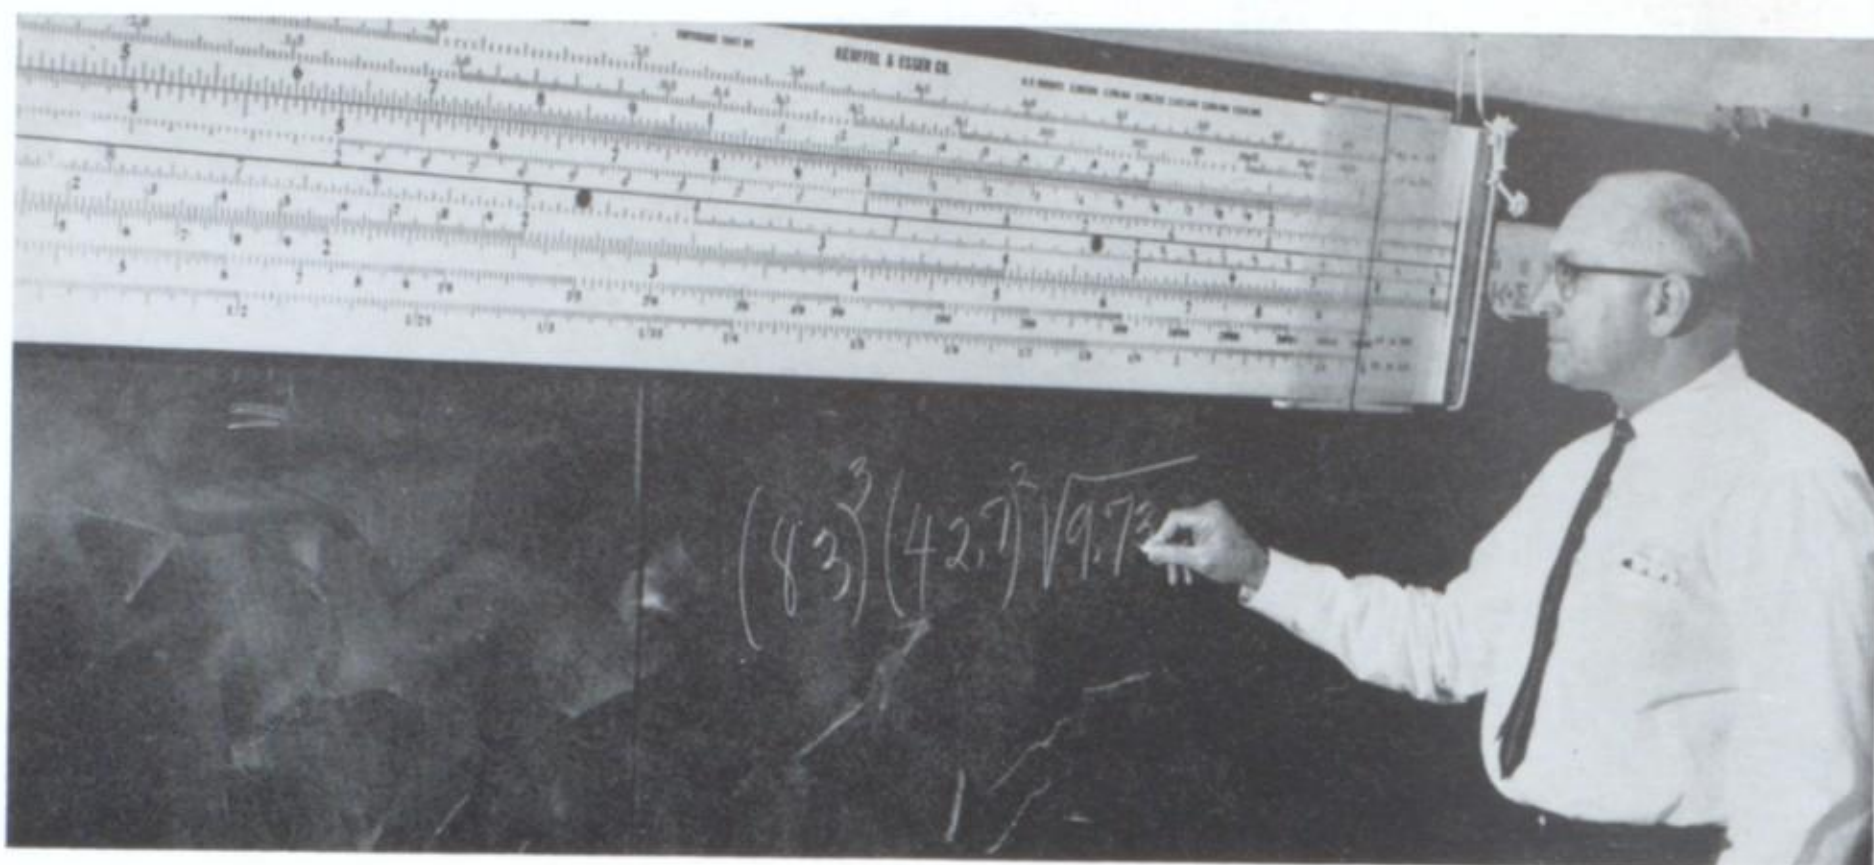

Science seeks, experiments, discovers, teaches.

Fred Schwarz, a member of the Physical Science Study Committee class, is learning about wave lengths through experiments with a "slinky."

Mr. Hillard shows a conductor to Janet Ross and Jim Schwarz.

Mr. Pyatt, head of the Math Department, demonstrates the use of the slide rule. The slide rule has become extremely useful in many calculations.

Math develops a foundation of reasoning.

Sherrie Anna gets advice from Mr. Tabor in working a geometry problem.

Math develops reasoning and logic and is being stressed more each day. BTHS keeps in pace by offering its students an advanced course which includes a combined study of plane and solid geometry and junior math. By graduation a student enrolled in this course should have two semesters of college-level math.

Every spring BTHS participates in the Mathematics Field Day held in Carbondale. Each class, freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior, is permitted five contestants chosen by a competitive exam. Belleville also takes part in the test sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America.

Judy Kimmel, John Major, and Bob Muehlhauser work a problem in junior math.

James Probst puts the finishing touches on his tractor which he began working on in February of 1962.

Shop students assemble, create, construct.

Bob Pelc and Toby Eolkin work at a drafting board in a mechanical drawing class. Many students enrolled in this course intend to become draftsmen.

Industrial education classes train students for vocations in today's mechanized world. Electrical engineering, drafting, mechanical drawing, and wood shop are among the courses offered in this field of study. Many of the class projects were displayed in Carbondale at the Industrial Education Exhibits in May. The tractor built by James Probst in an engineering class was among these. Besides vocational training, students learn many skills requiring preciseness and intricate detail.

George Casey assembles the framework of a 1902 Oldsmobile.

Mike Hornacek, Eddie Smallwood, and Cletus Range check the weight of chickens belonging to a fellow classmate.

Agriculture prepares students for the future.

Students enrolled in vocational agriculture receive actual experience in farming. During the course of a school year, they learn the proper methods of feeding and handling livestock, raising crops, and keeping farm records. Still another important feature of the course is shop work where students work on special projects.

Suburban agriculture students are, for the most part, city dwellers. This course is specifically designed to acquaint them with the agriculture of the area in which they live as well as that of other regions. They receive instruction in landscaping, crop-raising, and other subjects important to a modern suburban.

Working on their agriculture wagon are Les Mehrkens and Bill Albert.

Preparing greens at the demonstration table are Brenda Franke, Barbara Hackbarth, and Jo Ann Green.

Homemaking offers instructions in basic skills.

Busily sorting silverware are Kathy Dohrman and Pat Paul.

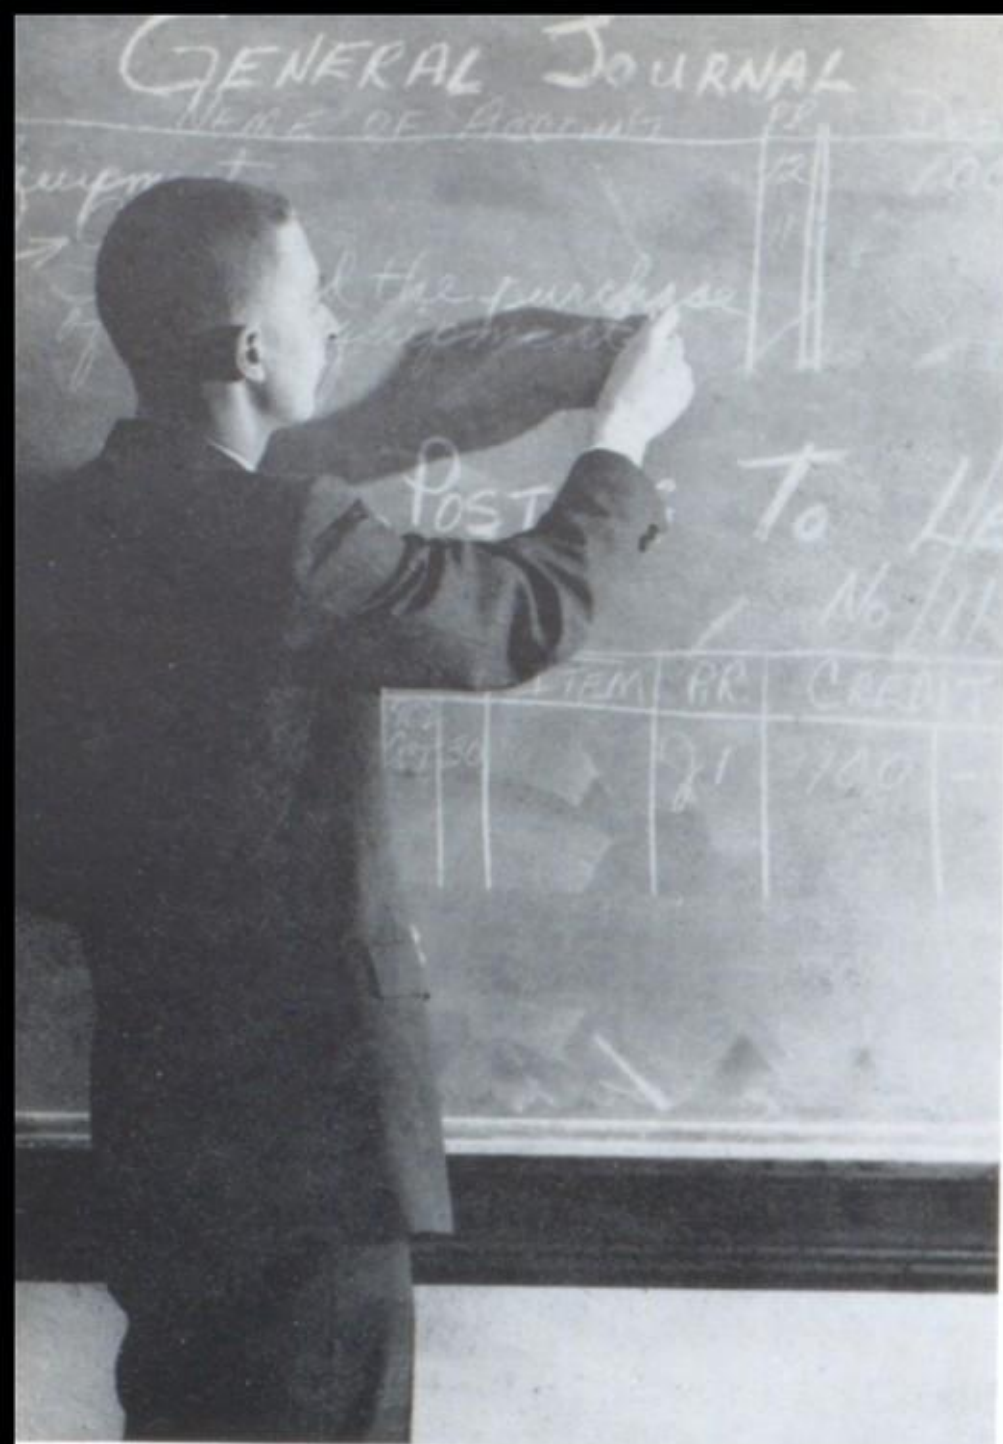

The whirr of sewing machines and the clatter of pots and pans are traditional sounds in the homemaking department. Comfortably situated in a modern apartment in the Main Building, the department strives to teach the students the newest aspects of homemaking.

Students are instructed in family relations and the basic cooking and sewing skills. They are taught the proper methods of serving the many foods they prepare, the use of various furnishings and equipment, and the importance of etiquette and poise as young homemakers.

Sandra Ehret admires a jumper she made in her homemaking class.

The process of bookkeeping is explained by Mr. Pfingsten as he demonstrates the correct procedure to follow when filling in a ledger with credit, deposits, and withdrawals.

Students learn skills for use in business

Students may enroll in many classes to learn about business. Some students take a business course, such as personal typing, for their own use or as preparation for college themes. Others may follow a business program throughout the entire four years of high school. These students may use their background to lead a business career as a bookkeeper, secretary, or typist.

First year clerical students are offered a general business course as an introduction to the field of study. Then as sophomores, they may take typing, bookkeeping, or business arithmetic. Junior pupils learn shorthand in which they are taught to write transcripts. They may continue their business program by studying advanced typing and bookkeeping in preparation for their final year.

Donna Pollock and Connie Nuetzel, future secretaries, work up totals on the adding machine.

Mrs. Henkel helps a student with a tabulation problem in a second year typing class.

Budding secretaries employ clerical arts.

Courses in clerical practice, office occupations, and secretarial practice are available to seniors. In these classes, polish is added to the skills learned in the previous years. Clerical practice and secretarial practice give the students the training necessary for a clerical position. The seniors learn the importance and operation of business machines, such as the comptometer and adding machine, in office occupations class. Many of the students find after-school jobs as a result of both their efforts and the efforts of the school. Two other courses are offered for seniors — business law and consumers' economics.

In office occupations, Paula Hopper shows her skill in filing records.

Paul Berowski, Charles Ross, Dave Creek, and Jim Gallo practice their quartet for the solo and ensemble contest.

Music rings out when these groups perform.

There are two divisions in the music opportunities offered to students at BTHS. These are vocal and instrumental. The vocal department consists of the Concert Choir, the Reserve Choir, the Sophomore Choir, and numerous choruses. The Concert Choir is open to students with good vocal ability from the three upper classes. The Reserve Choir and the Sophomore Choir are for students who wish to train for the Concert Choir.

The instrumental department of the school consists of the Reserve Band, the Concert Band, the Marching Band, and the Orchestra. The Reserve Band is for freshmen only, while the other three groups are open to any students in the other three classes.

These four sophomores blend their voices while they sing in class.

Pat Hickman, Keith Freeman, Kathy Hardin, and Alan Holt discuss their art projects.

Students learn that art has a language all its own.

In the art courses given at BTHS, there are many opportunities offered to those students who wish to make art their future career. These specialized courses are ceramics, interior decorating, and commercial art. In commercial art, the students learn the basic rules of art as used in the field of advertising. The students become acquainted with room planning in interior decorating, and learn to use design and color schemes to the best advantage.

The jewelry course teaches them how to make attractive pins, bracelets, and cuff-links, and they also learn the art of polishing and cleaning jewelry. For the enjoyment of the entire school, the art department displays some of its work in the halls of the cafeteria building. Traveling exhibits of children's and university art are also displayed by the art department.

Sylvia Janosky puts the finishing touches on her sculpture-picture of a violin.

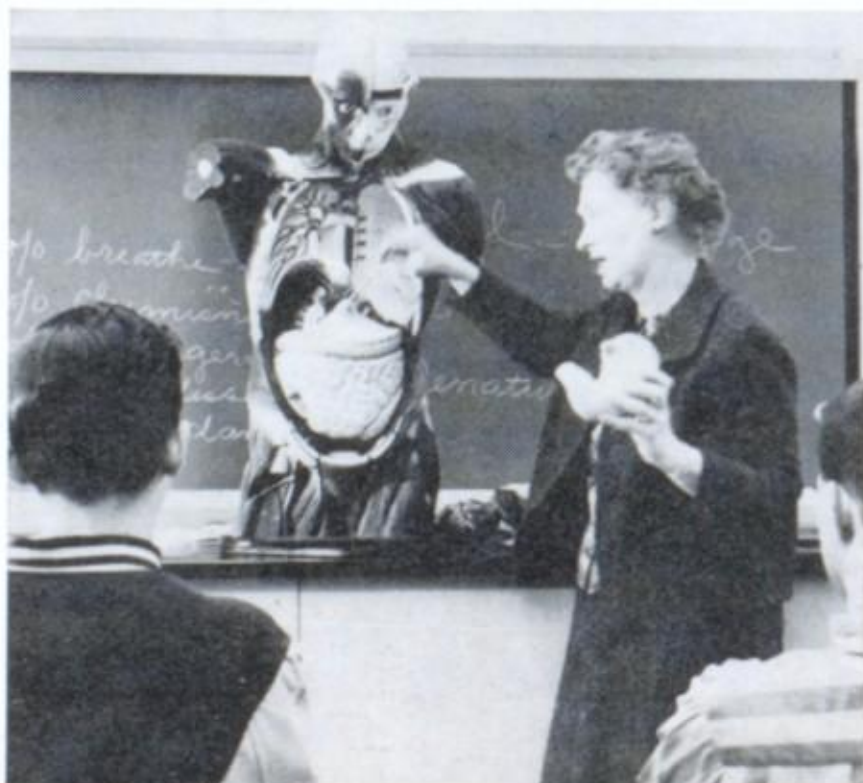

John Lewis, who took drivers' ed last summer, uses this practical training every day.

Auto safety and care of our bodies are studied.

In health classes, which count as a quarter of physical education, freshmen learn about the human body. By using many helpful educational films and oral reports in addition to regular class work, students find new outlooks on today's health problems.

Under the instruction of Mr. Frala, sophomores learn about safe driving habits. Many students also take the summer course which involves behind the wheel experience. Boys successfully completing this course find that their parents can often get lower insurance rates than can other families with teen-age male drivers.

Mrs. Boyd uses a model of the human torso to aid in explaining the function, position, and size of the liver to a freshman health class.

Extra reports are regularly given by students in health classes. Here Young Lee makes use of a chart while reporting on sports safety.

When the weather is warm physical education classes are held outdoors. Rob Allison, a junior, plays tennis during his gym period.

Dancing does much to help one gain muscle control and grace. These girls are enrolled in one of the modern dance classes.

P. E. classes give students vital exercise.

If students were asked, "What class do all freshmen, sophomores, and juniors at BTHS have in common?" the logical reply would be physical education. In gym classes, the teachers enforce the rules of sportsmanship and leadership. Lower classmen learn the meaning of class priority, as juniors are given first choice in activities and teammates.

During the winter, students take part in indoor sports and calisthenics. As spring arrives on campus, many students find themselves outdoors, engaged in archery, in playing tennis or baseball, or in hiking around the cinder track, perhaps preparing themselves for one of the current fads — hiking fifty miles.

When a gym period begins, girls know they have only ten minutes to dress. They change clothes rapidly, hurrying to be on time for roll check.

Although study hall is for studying, Annette Mallett and Sharon Stoeber take time out to engage in a conversation.

The library and study halls provide a place to study

The library makes an important contribution to the success of every student. In the library, he can find a vast assortment of books, newspapers, pamphlets, and magazines to aid him in his studies. Three librarians and numerous student assistants are ready and willing to help him locate the materials he needs.

There are about 17,000 books in the library, but the student's reading material is not limited to only these books; copies of 87 different magazines are also available to him. The circulation of the library averages 300 volumes each day.

In order to do well in his school work, the student must spend time studying outside of class. The time he spends in study hall gives him an opportunity to do some of this work at school. If he is involved in no extra activities, the student is in study hall one and one-half hours each day. Much of his homework can be finished in study hall, if he uses the time wisely.

Freshmen Kathy Wilson and Marva Scaiefe have research they must do in the library.

Final exams bring the semester to a close.

Exams are the culmination of an entire semester of work. Students work industriously to re-learn all they have forgotten; teachers worry about getting tests graded and about having semester grades in the office on time. Everyone seems to be pressed for time.

Immediately before exams, the library is crowded. As the occupants study, an aura of concentration and seriousness fills the room. In the classrooms, teachers and students are reviewing the courses, in preparation for the tests.

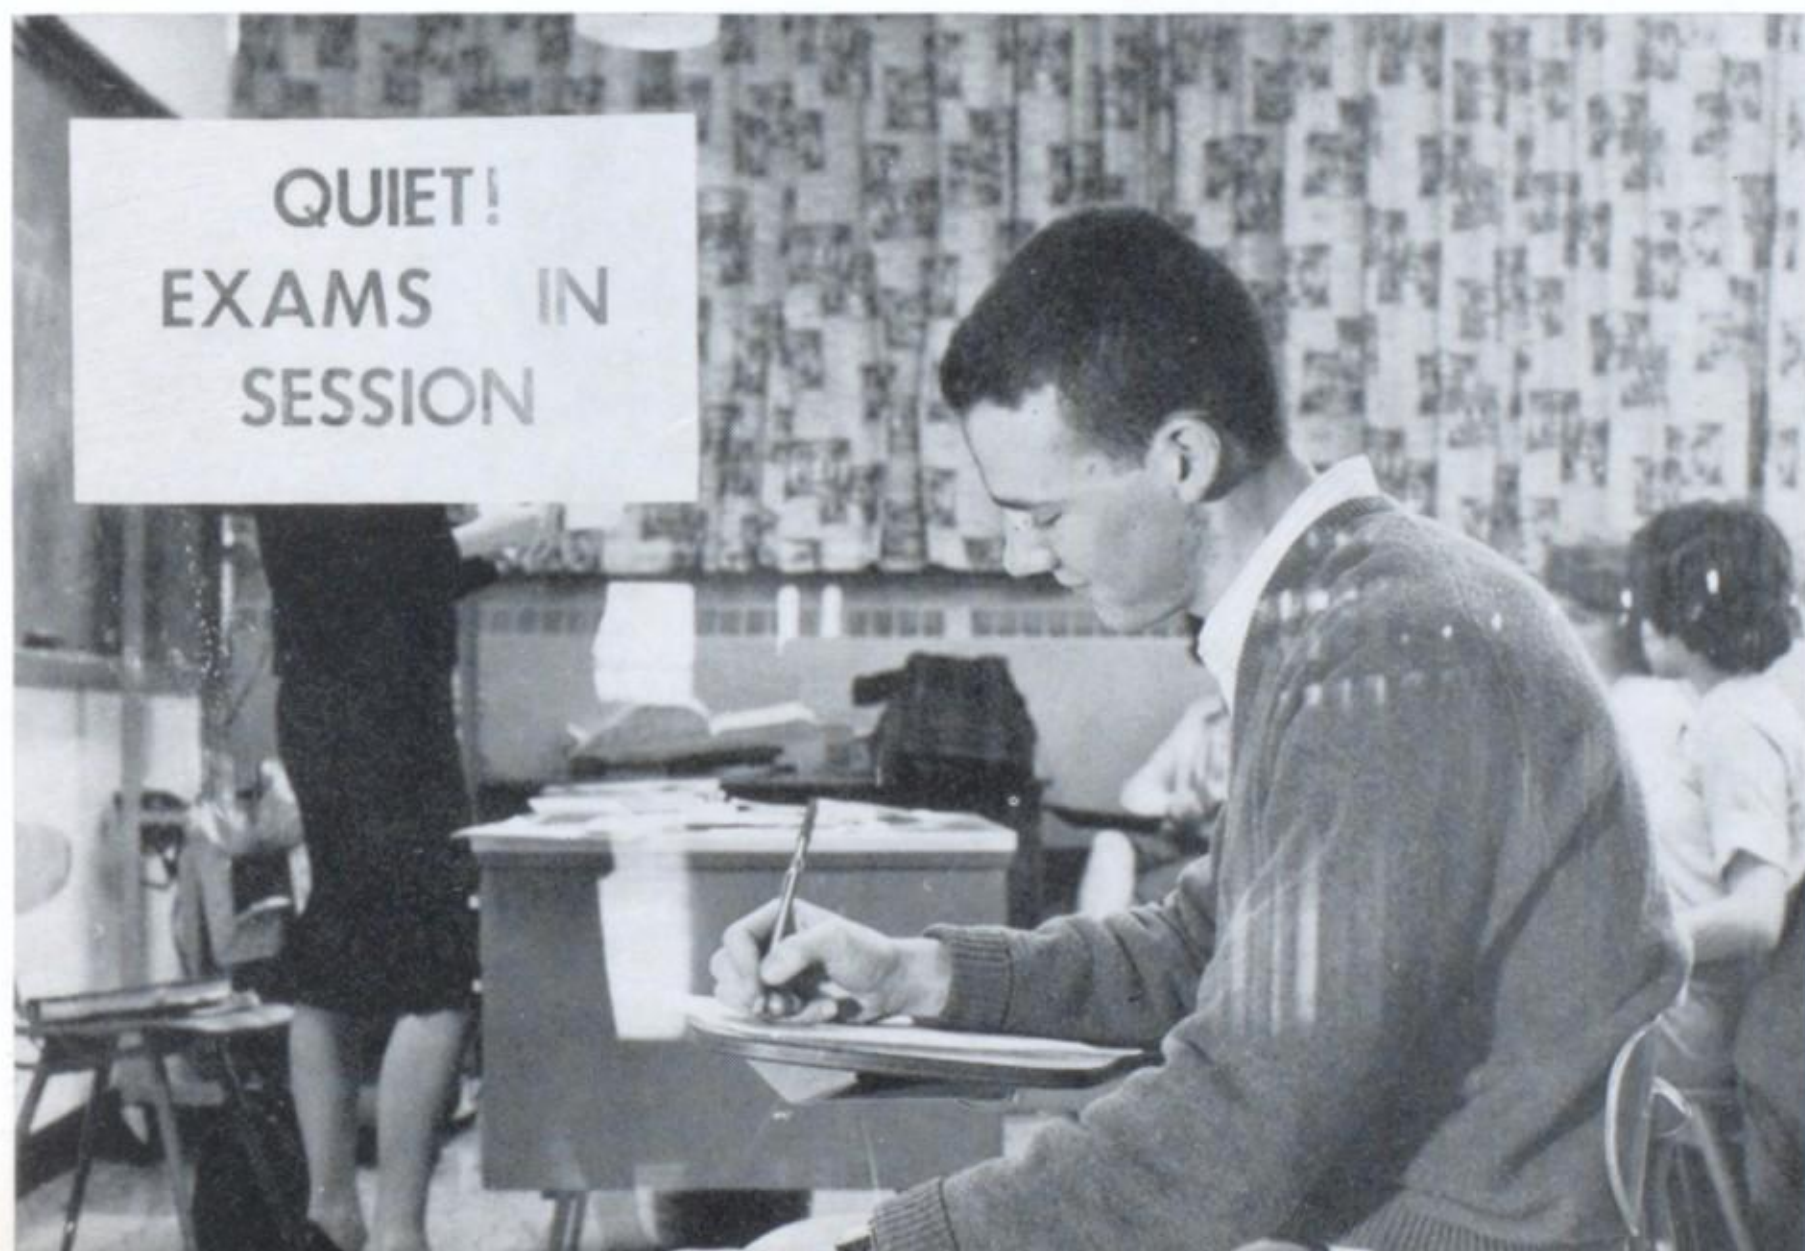

At exam time, most students fall into one of three groups. Some students are calm because they are already well-prepared. The majority of students fall into the second group; they must study frantically at the last moment. The unconcerned students are in the third group. They do not care enough about their grades to worry about exams.

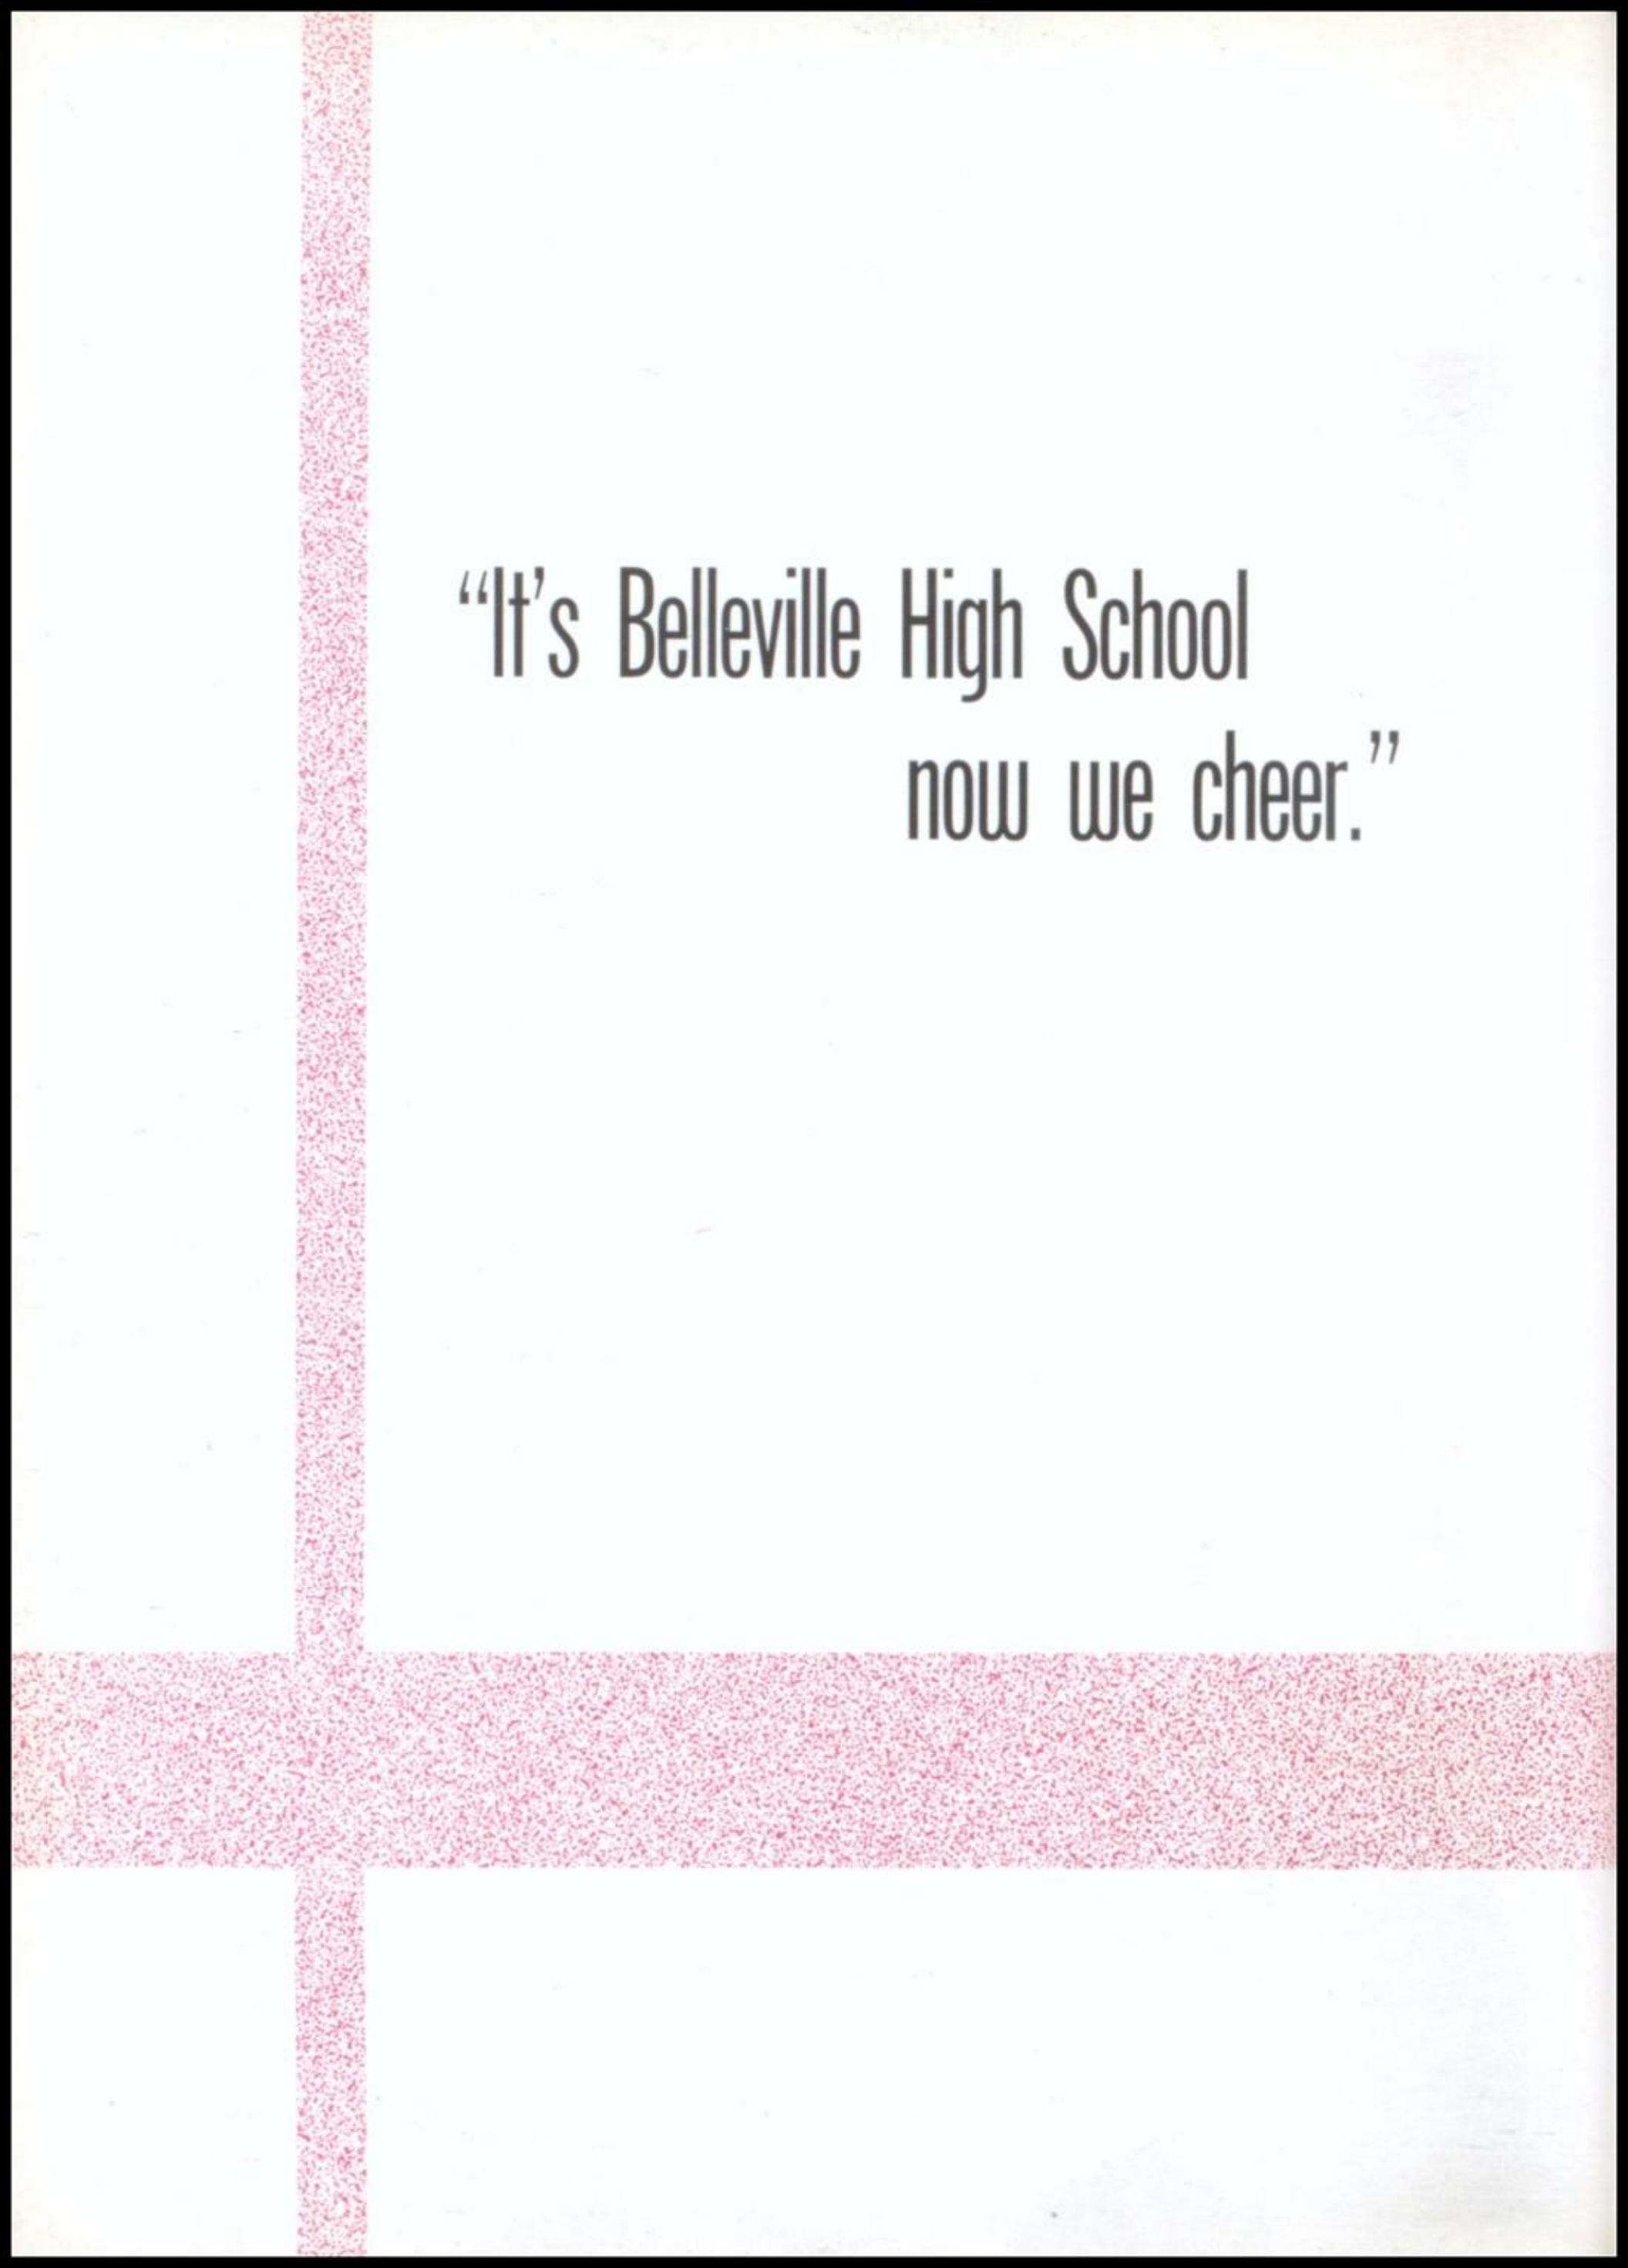

Finally exams are over. A few students have excelled, most have passed, and some have failed, but all are happy to be done with exams and to return to routine.

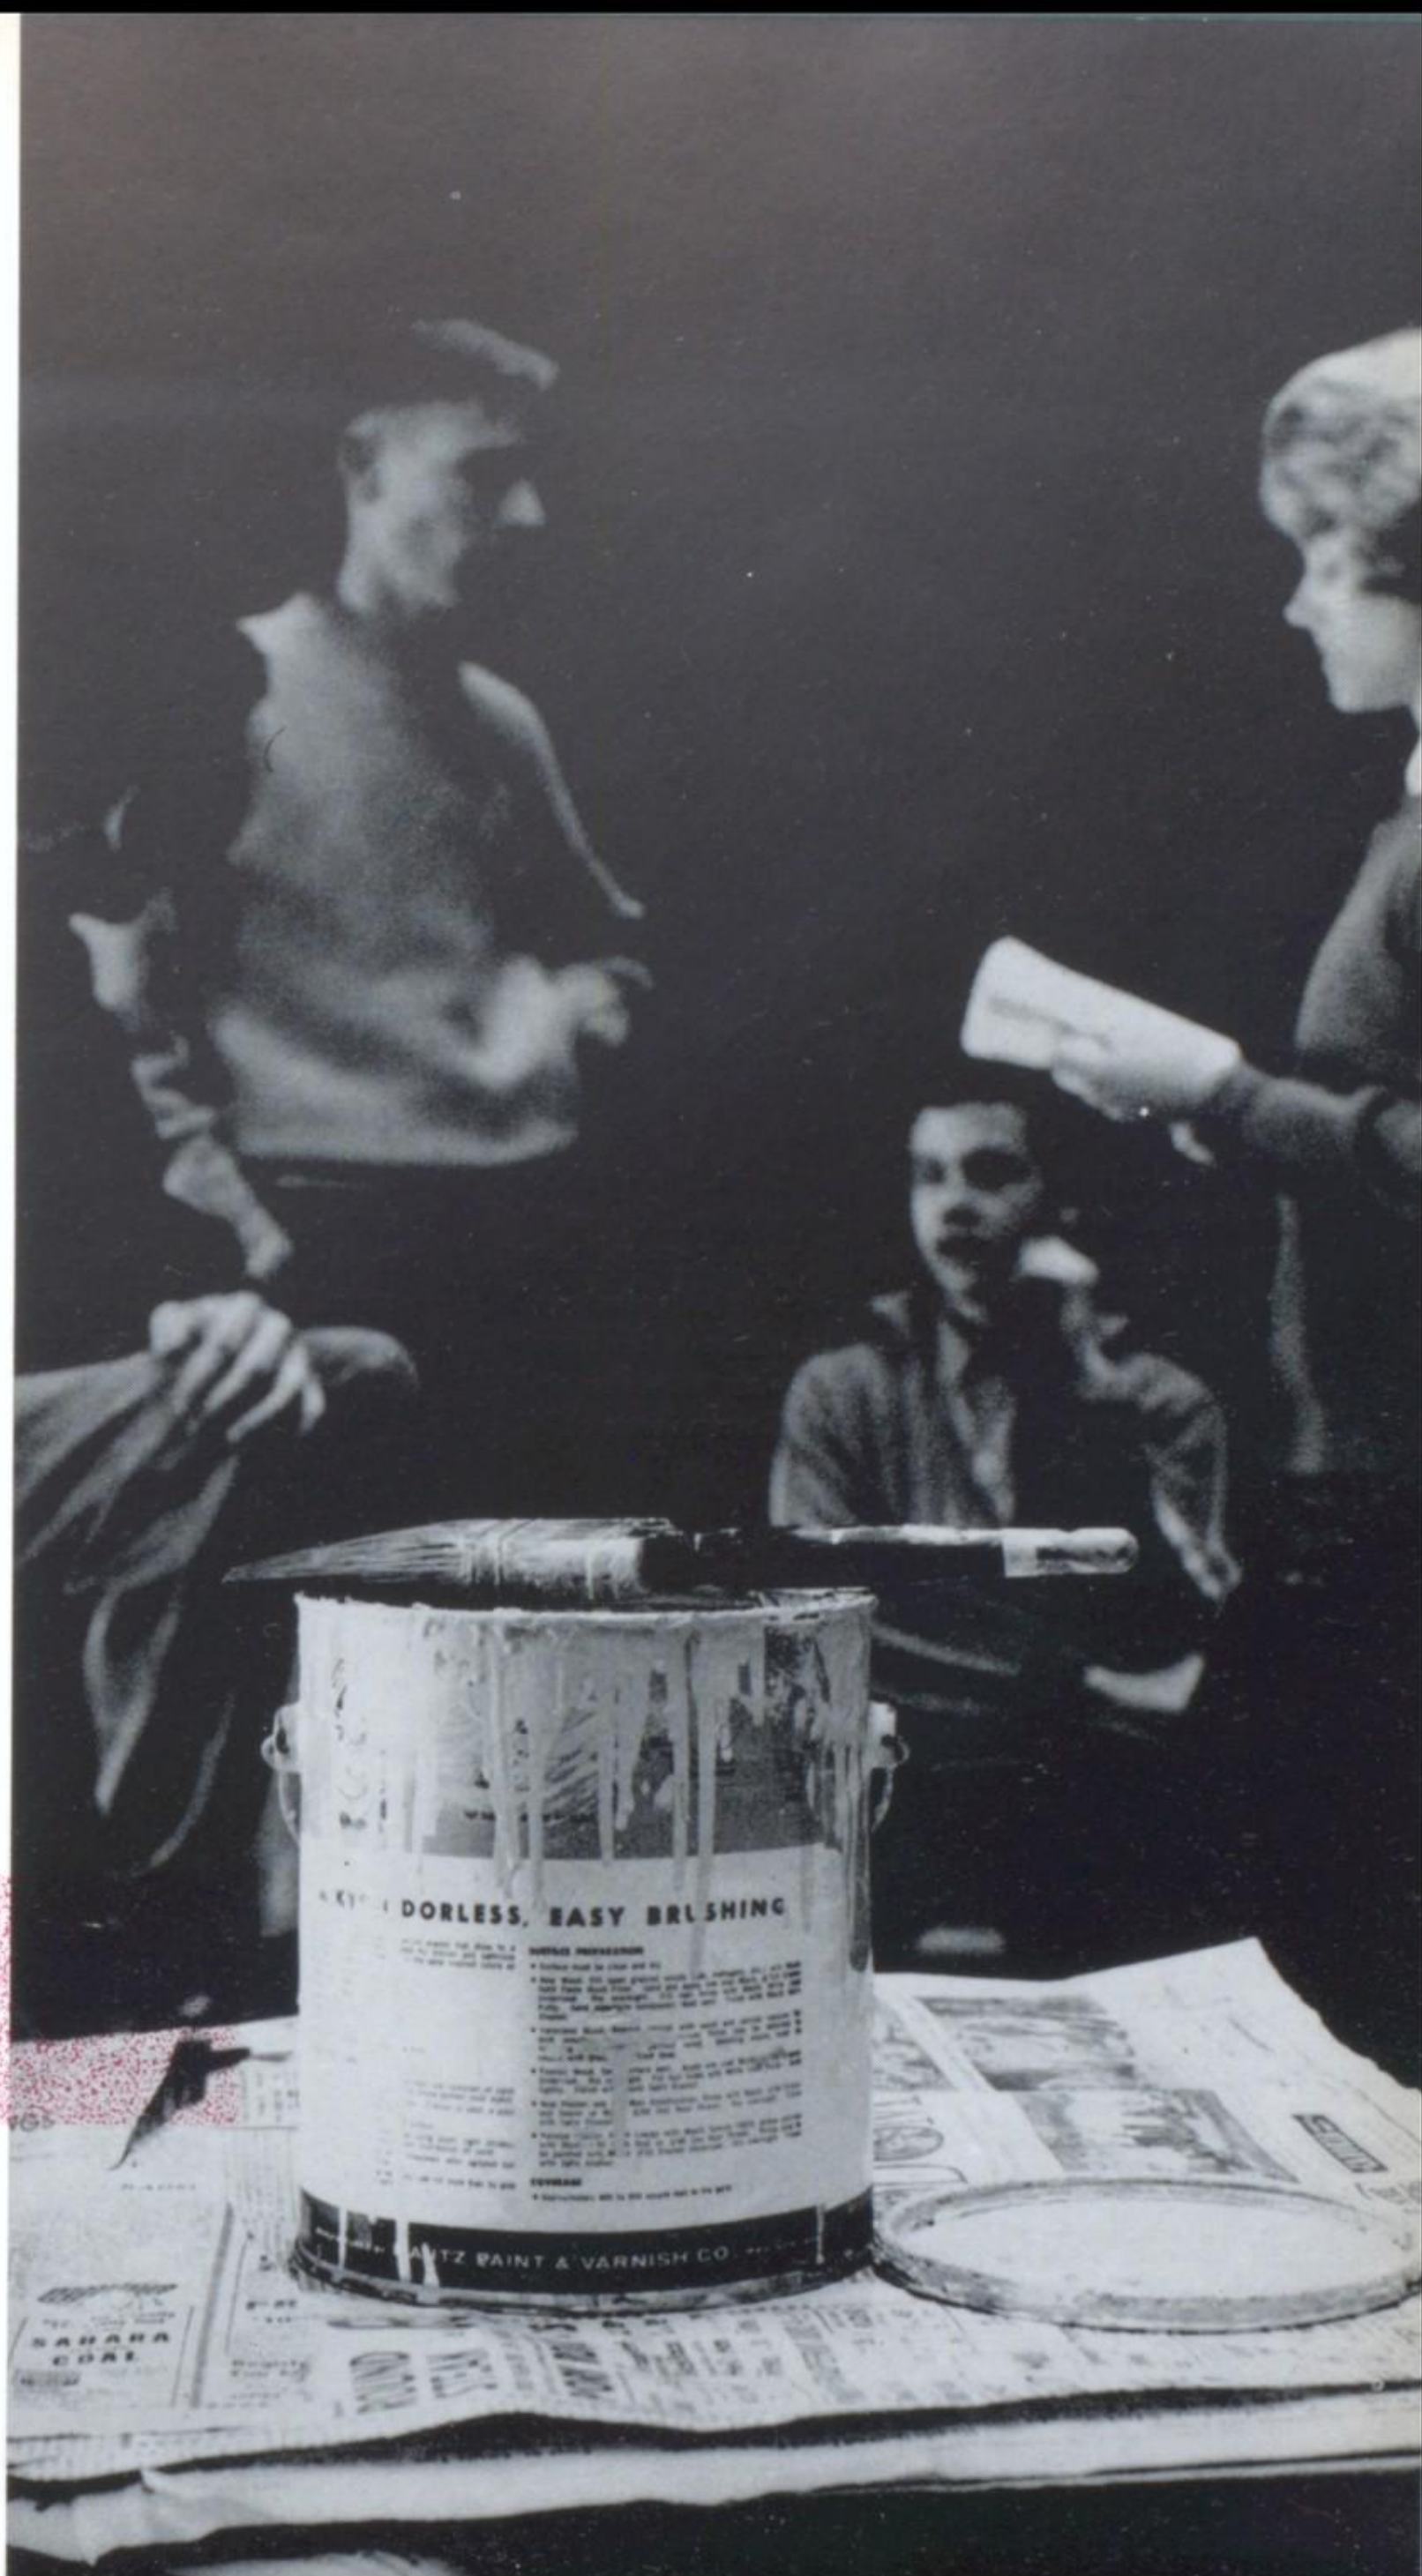

Mike Long, Janet Beatty, and Jim Isselhardt anxiously scan exam grades.

Bill Albert, like all other students, finds semester exams the final test of knowledge. Concentration and hard work pay off.

now we cheer.”

Bob Englebretson and Chris Baltz enjoy the music of the Sal Denron Orchestra at the annual Christmas Dance.

1962-1963 Student Council has an active year

The members of the Student Council, elected by their fellow classmates each spring, started the social life this year by sponsoring the Football Frolic, held after the first football game. Other activities included the Coke Party to welcome new students, the magazine drive, to boost the individual class treasuries, and the drive to collect money for our Korean foster child, Kyui Sook. They also chartered busses to out-of-town games, planned Hobo Day festivities, added sparkle to the students' lives at the Christmas Dance, presented College Night, relieved exam tension at the All-School Party, and joined forces with the Future Farmers for the Buckboard Bounce in May.

The officers for the 1962-63 year were: Row 1: Marilyn McCann, treasurer; Marsha Best, corresponding secretary. Row 2: Barbara Glock, recording secretary; Chris Baltz, chaplain. Row 3: Roger Mueller, president; Dave Englebretson, vice-president; and Jim Goodwin, parliamentarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones purchase magazine subscriptions from Gail and Brenda Spirtas, senior class salesmen in the annual magazine drive.

Council member Sarah Beekman posts a week's events on the Activity Board in the cafeteria lobby.

BTHS alumni return to the campus during the Christmas holidays to talk with students on College Night.

Working on the activities section are: Row 1: Vicki Milkert, Barbara Muehlhauser, Bobbie Ferrell, and Pat Buecher. Row 2: Tim Parker, Cathy Klein, Beatrice Peter, Sue Engler, Babs Cooper, Sandy Mueller, and Gail Spirtas.

Staff publishes yearbook.

Editor-in-chief, Marilyn McCann, considers the progress of the staff during the year.

Serving as photographers this year were Terry Allen, junior, and Mahlon Hillard, senior, backed up by Ron Loeffler and Stephen Frasheur, sophomore apprentices.

Looking over layouts are: Row 1: Sallie McCaffree, Jo Ellen Roodhouse, Ann Bosworth. Row 2: Linda Wehl, Sherry Pierce, and Sarah Beekman.

Life at BTHS is recorded by staff.

During the past school year the twenty-nine members of the Bellevinois Staff have been kept busy organizing the 1963 yearbook. In addition to getting ads from the area businessmen to boost their finances, staff members sold programs, popcorn, and candy apples at all of the home football games. The campaign to take student orders for the book was publicized by using a "Roaring Twenties" theme. After visiting Gas Light Square in St. Louis and taking pictures which were posted throughout the school, staff members built an old-time "speak-easy" in the lobby of the cafeteria for students to place their orders.

Next in line was the task of actually putting the book together. The four main committees, opening section, activities, academics, and sports worked to meet deadlines. Layouts, copy, and picture taking kept the staff members constantly busy. However, in the end the members of the staff agreed that the finished product was a fine reward for long hours and hard work that went into the 1963 Bellevinois.

Hy News staff worked to meet the deadline.

The Hy News Staff, advised by Miss Jossem, publishes the school paper seven times a semester. Besides the hard work maintained by the staff, they also sponsor the Hy News School Citizenship Award, given annually to a deserving member of the student body.

Within the limited time allowed before the presses start rolling, the members try to cover all important school events on and off the BTHS campus. The future journalists try to provide their readers with informative and interesting news.

The sixty-five members of the Concert Choir present the annual Christmas Vesper Service, "Christmas Echoes." Members of the Concert Choir are: Jeanette Anderson, Pat Andres, Janet Beatty, Theodore Becker, Marsha Best, Betty Blust, Rosalie Borders, Ann Bosworth, Carole Brewer, Pamela Brunzman, Hal Carroway, Vicky Chapman, Nancy Christian, Coy Clements, Carolyn Davis, Susan Dobbs, Pamela Drake, John Dungey, Philip Dungey, Judith Ellegood, Steven Ford, Kathleen Franke, Barbara Glock, Shirley Green, Kenneth Greenlee, David Guymon, Beverly Heberer, Ellen Hill, Marlene Jung, Mike Kaye, John Keck, Roger Klaus, Susan Concert choir entertains in public performance.

The Concert Choir is a blending of the voices of sixty-five students under the direction of Miss Baer.

After many painstaking hours of practice the Choir put various programs together to present to the public.

"Travelogue in Tone" was the theme of the concert presented by the Sophomore Choir.

Choral activities add to BTHS musical program.

These were the traditional Christmas Vesper Service, "Christmas Echoes," and the annual spring concert, "I Hear a Song."

The members of the 7A Sextette and the Boys Ensemble combine to create a unit known as the Madrigal Choir. This group practices to produce harmony in their renditions. The participating students, also members of the Concert Choir, perform often throughout the year, such as at the annual spring concert, "I Hear a Song."

This year a new vocal group was introduced to BTHS students. Called the Sophomore Choir, all of its participants are members of the sophomore class. They performed in an individual concert this year, "Travelogue in Tone." The talent of this group is a welcome addition to the musical department.

Members of the Ensemble and Madrigal Choir rehearse.

Our goal is harmony.

The Tone Twisters are a vocal group composed of sophomore boys which rehearse and perform under the guidance of Mr. Jones. Originally created in Junior High School, some of the original members remain in the group which performs often.

Talent is heard in song.

Chosen on the basis of individual singing ability and quality of singing together as a group, the members of the 7B Sextette are a great asset to the music department. This year the girls chose green shirtwaist dresses and paisley jackets for their performing outfits.

The 7B Sextette, accompanied by Ellen Hill, consists of Susan Dobbs, Barbara Glock, Patti Andres, Ann Young, Janet Beatty, and Corliss Ross.

Ellen Hill accompanies Ken Greenlee, Bob Weakly, John Keck, John Lewis, Andy Tonne, Louis Ryseff, Richard Krim, and Dave Guymon.

Group likes to perform.

The Ensemble, directed by Miss Baer, practiced every Thursday during the seventh hour for their many public appearances. Composed of eight boys, the group sang at many banquets and civic affairs during the year. In addition to these, they also performed at the State Music Contest where they received a superior rating.

Sextette blends in song.

Long, hard practices, under the leadership of Miss Baer, make the 7A Sextette the excellent vocal group that it is. These six girls participate in all the choir concerts and perform for civic organizations, such as the PTA and private groups.

Carole Brewer accompanies the members of the 7A Sextette: Harriet Verges, Marsha Best, Donna Waltemate, Jeanette Anderson and Bev Heberer. Osceola Smith was absent when the picture was taken.

The Marching Band performs in its annual winter concert.

School spirit is boosted by the Marching Band.

The Marching Band, directed by Mr. Leroy Kirsch and led by seven strutting majorettes and a color guard, entertained at all of our home football games and one away game. Some of the band members and the majorettes competed in a State solo and ensemble contest at Charleston, Illinois. This year the band presented a series of concerts with well-known guest soloists and local guest band directors. The band was also kept busy playing for pep assemblies and marching in parades.

Members of the band this year were: Jane Baltz, Susan Mecker, Sandra Schmidt, Nancy Bott, Mary Lou Diesel, Kathie Halloran, Dawn Marshall, Virginia McIntosh, Jo Anne Laufer, Marilyn Baltz, Arthur Brownlie, Nancy Harry, Margo McKinley, flutes; Donna Ruffin, Lois Davis, oboe; Rebecca Fritz, Elaine Anna, bassoon; Gloria Eckley, Gregory Martin, Linda Emig, Steve Bloomer, Louis Ryseff, Connie Weber, Rhonda Wildt, John Irwin, Lucille Maurer, William Huston, Gordon Chamness, Mike Bailey, Barbara Langbehn, Sylvia Janosky, Marsha Akers, Terry Schau, Patricia Thornton, Sharon Root, clarinet; Angela Hascall, Bruce Nesbit, bass clarinet; Sheryl Logan, Earl Jeter, Thomas Germann, Janet Schaufler, Carole Brewer, Mary Kraske, alto saxophone; Richard Limbach, tenor saxophone; Robert Schlueter, baritone saxophone; Sandra Lewallen, Gary Nast, Allen Pulliam, Robert Sherman, Jean Downing, French horn; Michael Logan, Denis Roth, David Welker, William Pfingston, Jay Wittlich, Neal Doughty, Roger Teichgraeber, Scott Lewis, Jerry Berger, Donald Albert, Roger Hilgenbrink, Russell Hansen, Tom Shanherr, Tom Barbee, Paul Blome, cornet; Tom Kesterson, Robert Degnan, Phil McCullough, Gene Gurley, Richard Garcia, Jerry Stonewater, Christopher Bommarito, Clyde Brasher, trombone; Robert Fenton, Roger Graves, Ted Wilhelm, Philip Dungey, Vicki Volland, baritone; Chris Curkendall, Kent Keller, Robert Clemans, Don Tisch, Lee Long, Dennis Dehn, bass; Connie Harper, string bass; Evelyn Fritz, marimba; Eugene Farrario, Lynn James, Robert James, James Isselhardt, Connie Lewis, Gary Miller, David Ringle, Linda Thornton, percussion.

Mr. Kirsch directs the BTHS Marching Band in all its performances.

Don Amenn, Thomas Allan, Gloria Batha, John Beckwith, Paul Berowsky, James Brown, Robert Buecher, William Butts, George Cable, David Creek, Mark Daily, Francis Davis, Clara DeBoe, Daniel Franke, Judy Fickinger, James Gallo, Lou Ann Goetz, Jackie Haskins, Barbara Hammel, Carl Hofmeister, Sharon Hoyt, John Koseck, Michael Klamm, Judy Lidisky, Kathy Matteson, Wal-

Band gives concerts.

Every day, from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., anyone in the cafeteria may have heard the music of the Concert Band. Under the direction of Mr. Peters, these fifty high school students practiced classical and concert music for presentation at assemblies, such as the Christmas assembly, and for programs in the community.

In addition to the programs, the Concert Band also sponsored a dance after the Cathedral basketball game and went on a picnic to Pere Marquette State Park.

Orchestra blends notes.

Under the direction of Mr. Peters, the orchestra had daily practices in order to do the best job possible on their arrangements. Twenty-two students in the musical organization took pride in presenting the programs which combined the several instruments in pleasing harmony. Programs were given at the capping ceremony for nurses in the Junior College and for the Junior College commencement program. With hard practice and fine use of their talents, these musicians pleased those who heard them in concert.

The Band Council was organized to make money and organize activities for the group of band members. It is composed of representatives from the four classes in the Orchestra, Concert Band, and Marching Band.

Little Theatre attempts to further dramatics.

The Little Theatre's main purpose is to further interests in dramatic art. A student is required to work on two productions other than the Little Theatre Play in order to keep membership in the organization. Sponsored by Mrs. Milligan and Mr. Pleasant, the Little Theatre presented "The Glass Menagerie" and helped on the many other school productions.

Much work goes into each play. Those students who have roles have to memorize their lines and there is much work put into the making of costumes, the lighting of the stage, the painting of flats, the ordering of tickets and programs, and the gathering of props. Besides working on their own productions, the Little Theatre attends a professional play. This year their field trip was to the American Theatre in St. Louis where they saw Camelot.

The Little Theatre holds tryouts for plays under their direction.

Mr. Pleasant and Mrs. Mulligan, sponsors, and Robert Rhodes, president; Sharon Hopfinger, treasurer; Ann Bosworth, vice president; and Candy Tolles, secretary, led the Little Theatre this year.

Little Theatre shines in "Glass Menagerie."

Seven long weeks of hard rehearsals had taken place when finally, on November 15 and 16, the Little Theatre brought "The Glass Menagerie" to the stage. The reproduction of Tennessee Williams' original stage play was directed by Mr. Hunsaker and technically directed by Mrs. Milligan. Set in St. Louis, the play told the story of a crippled girl who owned a collection of glass animals.

Robert Rhodes watches as Carole Barre performs in the Little Theatre play.

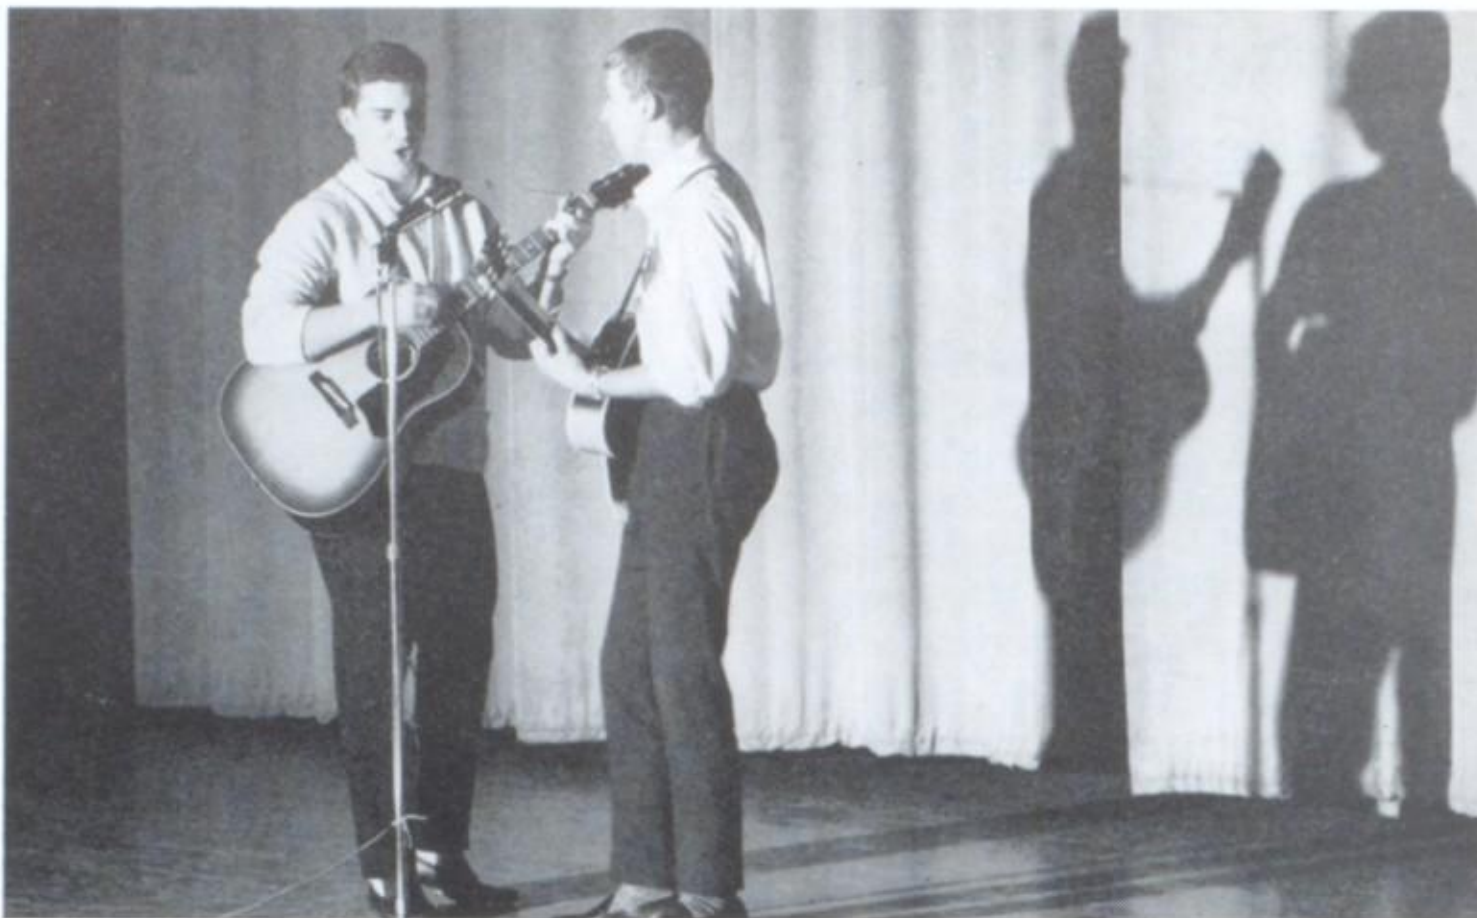

Sharon Hopfinger gave an outstanding performance in "Glass Menagerie."

This play, however, was not the end for the young stars of BTHS, for there were many long hours to come in order to be ready for district and sectional contests. The hard work was rewarded when the troupe came home on February 19 with a third in the district contest and on March 9 with a tie for second in the sectional contest.

Sharon Hopfinger and Robert Rhodes portray the characters in this scene.

Roy Culbertson and Ray Tissier entertained at all-school variety show sponsored by Thespians Troupe 369.

"Let Me Entertain You" was the featured number in "Anything Goes," the Thespians' annual variety show. Under the directorship of the troupe sponsor, Mr. Hunsaker, the fourth annual variety show was again successful.

Working on the variety show is only one of the requirements of BTHS Thespian Troupe No. 369. Members must work on all but one production. The members work by being student directors, chairman of crews, house and stage managers, and workers on the various crews.

During the year the troupe not only entertains at the school, but they perform for many outside organizations. In the spring new Thespians are formally initiated into the troupe.

Thespians lead drama activities.

The Thespian Council consisted of Lee Ann French, Mike Kaye, Russ Hanson, Mr. Hunsaker.

Seniors star in modern comedy

Under the direction of Mr. Pleasant, "The Mouse That Roared," by Leonard Wibberley, was presented by the seniors. For the first year, the senior class turned over the production of the play to the Little Theatre. The stage crew, with supervision by Mr. Hunsaker, supported the play with their props, sound effects and lighting effects. An audience of students and adults viewed the comedy of which the members of the Class of 1963 could be proud.

Leading parts were: Seated, Gay Lee Weith and Tana Siler; standing, Roger Hilgenbrink, Robert Rhodes, Joe Montgomery, and Tim Parker.

Rehearsing were: Row 1: Nona Renz, Ann Pool. Row 2: Lois Davis, Ann Young. Ken Greenlee. Standing: Diana Chapman, Sandy Mueller, John Milazzo, Cathy Huyler, David Nehrkorn, and Marilyn Zupsich.

"Meet Me at the Witch-Skinning, or Burnt to an Ash with a Song in His Heart, or Trampled by Elephants Before Dinner" is a vengeful musical play by J. T. Stokes. It concerns a good queen and a bad queen who were both married to the same king.

"The Brute," by Anton Chekhov, told the story of a widow who enjoyed mourning for her husband. Shortly, she fell in love with a man who had come to collect her husband's debts. After much quarreling, even the prospect of a duel, their relationship was settled and the man pledged his love to the widow.

"A Night in the Country," by Betty Smith and Robert Finch, is about a family who spent the night at a cabin which had no modern facilities. They soon became discouraged when everything went wrong and packed up and left.

Connie Crawford descends stairs in "The Day the Plottypo Danced."

Sophomore play is directed by author.

"The Day the Plottypo Danced," an original children's play by Mr. Stokes, director of the BTHS Drama Choir, was presented to the school and the community by the Sophomore Class on February 15.

The Plottypo was the name of a monster who visited a house. The only way that the family who lived there could get him to leave was to make him dance, and the only way to make him dance was to guess his name. Being unable to guess his name, they called the Witch Mister, who lived on the other side of the moon, to help them. In order to get the Witch Mister over the moon the family took his charm away. However, the Witch Missus got the charm and would not give it back for the holder was endowed with magic powers. Soon the Witch Mister retrieved it and was going to leave without telling the Plottypo's name. Suddenly, however, he had a stroke of kindness, guessed the Plottypo's name and then the Plottypo danced.

Participating in this scene of the children's play are John Sims and Connie Crawford.

Amidst a flourish of gorgeous pastel colors, exotic dances, and witty script, the 1962 Junior Jam was presented under the direction of Mrs. Guthrie and Mr. Pleasant. The main characters in the production were portrayed by three talented members of the class, Tony Appenzeller, Louis Ryseff, and Carol Stone.

Engrossed in their own unhappiness, Mike Kaye and Elizabeth Goetz are evidently unimpressed by the joy and elegance around them.

In the play, "Harem Scarem," Chris Bommarito stands before the court, consisting of Charles Jackson, Don Evon, Andrew Tonne, Philip Dungey, Nancy Hartman, Mike Kaye, Elizabeth Goetz.

in 1962 Junior Jam.

The story opened in a classroom in a high school that could be located anywhere on the map, and developed into a trip to the mysterious land of Arabia, all because of an innocent daydream of a shy student. It is here that the title "Harem Scarem" appropriately originated. The light comedy was based on the antics of the two boys, Fred and Don, and their association with the charming inhabitants of this strange land.

At the dance and coronation afterwards, with colorful pillars and Egyptian decorations dazzling the floor and walls, Donna DuHadway and David Englebretson were crowned the 1962 Junior Jam queen and king. They were attended by their court consisting of: John Major, Carol Stone, Gary Guest, Jackie Stacey, Linda Williams, Bob Muehlhauser, Juanita Nelson, Jim Goodwin, Roy Culbertson, Kathy Glueck, Bill Butts, Vickie Kohlenberger, Dean Rockwell, Dana Wright, Mary McKelvey, Dellis Germann, Kathy Hardin, and Philip Dungey.

Dave Englebretson and Donna DuHadway were chosen to reign over the Jr. Jam.

Mr. Hunsaker, sponsor, meets with the officers of the Forensic League: Mel Trotter, president; Ruth Meng, vice-president; and Gary Huwer, treasurer.

Speech students are in drama and forensics.

The Drama Choir, instructed by Mr. Stokes, specializes in an unusual type of dramatic production. The members present skits in which the chorus of voices supplies the metrical beat in unison. The group meets to practice skits, which are presented at assemblies and meetings in the same manner as early Greek dramas.

Any speech student who meets the requirements is able to become a member of the National Forensic League. The Forensic League enables speech students to gain experience in public speaking. Based on the point system, debaters receive two to nine points, determined by the excellence of their performance. Other contestants receive ratings of one to six points.

Members of the Drama Choir are: foreground, Connie Crawford. Row 1: Rita Schrupp, Tim Klein, Louis Ryseff, Lynn Vosty, Marilyn Zupsich, Mr. Stokes, Dee Tallent. Row 2: Janice Lonsdale,

Debate develops speaking abilities.

The members of the debate squads were able to bring a great deal of credit to BTHS as well as trophies from the tournaments. All this, however, was not done easily. They had to put many hours of work into research and speech preparation. Debating creates better public speakers from the students with only average ability. Each year debaters speak on a topic which is decided upon by a national committee. In addition to this, all debate contests on this topic are judged by the National High School Debate Rules. Points are given as a rating for the individual speaker. Upon the accumulation of enough points the debater may become a member of the National Forensics League.

Debaters are shown planning their next debate. They are Keith Phoenix, Belle Waldfogel, Maureen Constance, and Gary Huwer, seated, and Dan Daubach, Lee Ann French, Dave Englebretson, Ruth Meng, and Mel Trotter, standing.

Future Farmers learn methods of agriculture.

The students of our school, who some day will become the producers of the food we will eat, are receiving help in getting started in farming from the FFA.

The FFA is providing help through two main projects this year. The first project is the raising and the breeding of a gilt. The second project is the clearing of a portion of the woods on which the new school will be built. This cleared land will then be used as test plots for the members' projects.

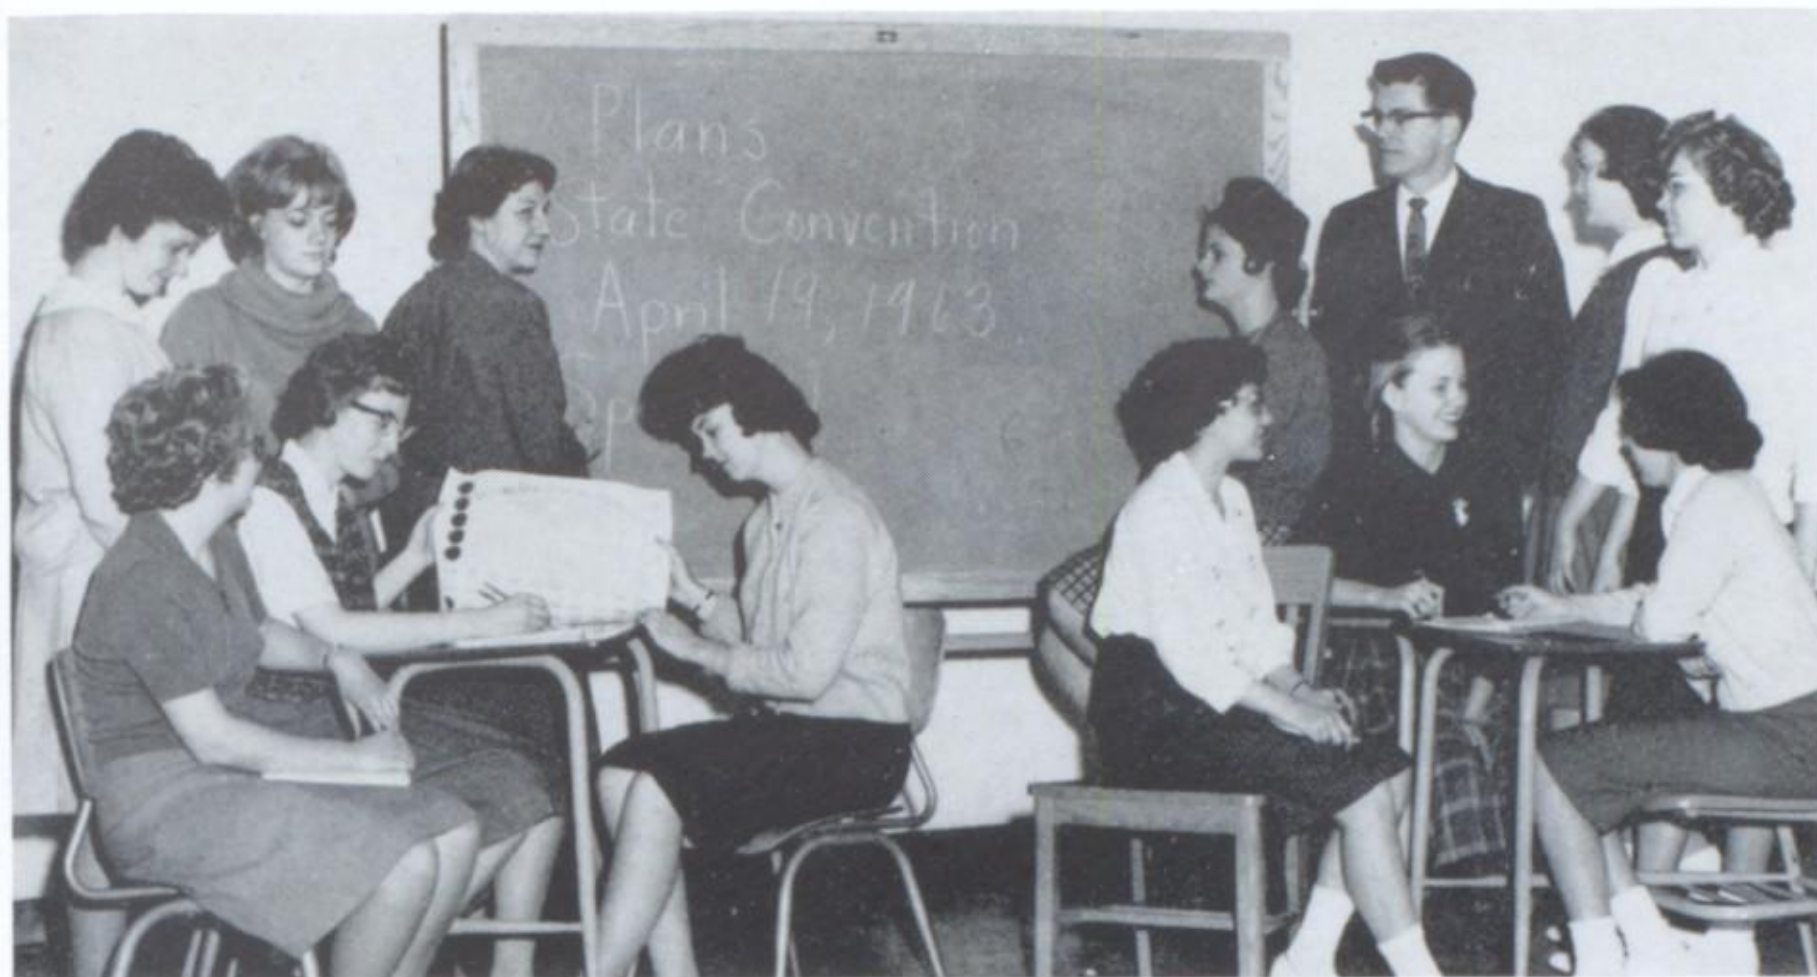

As you see, the work that the members are doing benefits not only the future farmers but also the future consumers.

Attending to business of the Future Farmers are Robert Roenicke, Leslie Mehrkens, Bill Albert, Jim Hauch, Norman Pensoneau, and Charles Waelti.

Participating in a discussion are Dave Bujnak, Dale Smith and Gary Foree, seated, and Bob Gill, Mr. Wolford, and Dennis Clayton, standing.

FTA promotes better teachers.

The F. J. Friedli Chapter of the Future Teachers of America was chartered at BTHS in 1955. Since then, the FTA has prospered into a valuable asset to both teachers and students. The members of FTA learn about the teaching profession, and the teachers benefit by the student help in grading papers and tutoring pupils who need extra help.

The Harvest Swing after the Maroon-Crusader game was their first activity of this school year. Selling the Maroon booster patches was the FTA attempt to boost school spirit and to increase their treasury. To honor our teachers, the FTA was host to a faculty tea in December.

Among the various teachers invited to speak to the group this year were Mr. Haberaecker, Mr. Vogel, and Mrs. Quackenbos. Another profitable year was brought to a close with the annual election of officers and the candlelight installation ceremony in May.

Officers of the FTA were: Row 1: Carolyn Davis, parliamentarian; Carla Leshner, treasurer; Nancy Holeman, secretary, and John Harwig, president. Row 2: Chris Harter, historian, and Sarah Beekman, vice-president.

This year's FHA officers were: Seated, Kathy Weissenbach, secretary; Lynn Webster, treasurer; Joy Hylsky, president; Vicky Patterson, vice president, public relations. Standing: Mary Koenig, historian; Carol Kaemper, vice president, projects; and Mary Ann Schaefer, vice president.

Students participate in FHA and FNA activities.

The purpose of the Future Nurses Club is to acquaint girls with a nursing career. Any girl who is a freshman or above and a student at BTHS and has a scholastic average of "C" or better is eligible for club activities. The shift system made it necessary this year to have two meetings every other Wednesday, with the juniors and seniors meeting at 2:30 and the freshmen and sophomores meeting at 4:30.

The requirement for membership in the Future Homemakers of America is that a girl must have been enrolled in a class in home economics. These girls learn the art of homemaking by working on projects throughout the year. This year the spring rally and convention was held at BTHS and the homemakers were hostesses to members of homemaking departments from other schools in the area.

Industrial skills are encouraged.

Under the direction of Mr. Aldag, Mr. Blondel, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Harpstreet, Mr. Heinz, Mr. Gyerman, Mr. O'Connell, and Mr. Sims, the members of the Industrial Education Club endeavor to promote industrial skills.

This year the project which drew the most time was the building of a 1901 Oldsmobile. Working by a blueprint, the boys set the parts and then assembled the car. This project, led by the officers of the club, Willis Jenks, president; Edward Whitsell, recorder; and Ronald Bramel, treasurer, showed what can be done with new skills and organized work.

This year's Industrial Education Club officers were Edward Whitsell, recorder; Ronald Bramel, treasurer; and Willis Jenks, president.

Seniors find that donkeys can be very stubborn animals.

Seniors prove to be as stubborn as their donkey opponents.

The annual donkey basketball game, co-sponsored by the Bellevinois Staff and the Student Council, provided enjoyable entertainment for both the participating seniors and the excited crowd.

The cheers continued until the donkeys were led into the basketball courts. Anxious seniors, in teams of five, waited impatiently for their number to be called and deplored the sound of the whistle which ended the two minute periods of riding. More than thirty-two teams of boys opposed girls on the donkeys which kicked and bucked. Seniors and spectators alike found the donkey basketball game to be truly "America's Funniest Game."

A fight for the basketball rages between two team members.

Audio-Visual Club promotes knowledge with films.

Gary Foree, audio-visual assistant, prepares the movie projector.

The school could not operate as well without the assistance of the Audio-Visual Club members. There are about twenty-seven members, having the objective of aiding teachers and informing fellow students.

Mr. Wolford, the faculty advisor, conducts the monthly meeting as a means of instructing the boys in the correct care and operation of the various machines placed in their hands.

The boys show a film on the average from five to seven times every day. During the school year an average of six hundred films pass through their hands. In showing these films the boys either stay in the projection room or take the equipment to class rooms.

Cameras are studied.

This year a new organization was introduced on the BTHS campus. A call by Mr. Hillard to those interested in photography was well answered, and the Camera Club was formed. Members meet to learn more about cameras and the finer points of photography.

Language clubs study people and customs.

This year the German students of BTHS formed a German Club, under the guidance of Miss Niess and Mrs. Lind. They organized for the purpose of promoting the study of German. Their activities this year included a Christmas party and a trip to Cin-rama in St. Louis to see "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm."

The Latin Club was created to promote a closer study of the life of the Roman people. Under the sponsorship of Miss Steel and Mrs. Ochs, the group gave a Latin Banquet at which they portrayed Roman culture. Attending the banquet were a group of students dressed in the costumes of ancient Rome. The club also made a field trip to the Art Museum where they studied the art of the Romans more closely.

Pam Anderson, secretary; David Gerber, president, and Frank Hackmann, vice-president, preside over a meeting of the German Club.

Christine Baltz wins Citizenship Award.

DAR Award presented to outstanding senior

Selected by her classmates, Christine Baltz was the recipient of this year's Daughters of the American Revolution award. She was chosen on the basis of her dependability, service, leadership, and loyalty to BTHS.

Chris was a cheerleader for four years and a co-captain of the squad in her senior year. She served as Sports Editor of the 1963 Bellevinois and as a Student Council officer. She was a member of the Latin Club, the Marching Band, Band Council, Future Teachers of America, and was treasurer of the Junior Honor Society. She participated in the Junior Jam, in addition to being a candidate for Jam queen. A Hy News Citizenship Award candidate, a member of the court of the 1962 Football Queen, and a semi-finalist in the Illinois State Scholarship competition, Chris was elected in her senior year for membership in the Senior Honor Society.

Distinctive honor is bestowed on chosen few

The National Honor Society selects its members each year on the basis of excellent performance in scholarship, leadership, service, and citizenship. After careful consideration of the eligibility of students, the committee, composed of members of the faculty, chose fifty-seven outstanding seniors for membership.

All the candidates were notified of their election into the organization upon receipt of a letter that acknowledged their service and congratulated them on their achievements.

Junior varsity cheerleaders were Linda Duby, Candy Engel, Elizabeth Imboden, Cheryl Engler, and Sydney Coose.

Cheerleaders praise the basketball team in an assembly for winning the Centralia Holiday Tournament.

"We're with you boys, we're with you!"

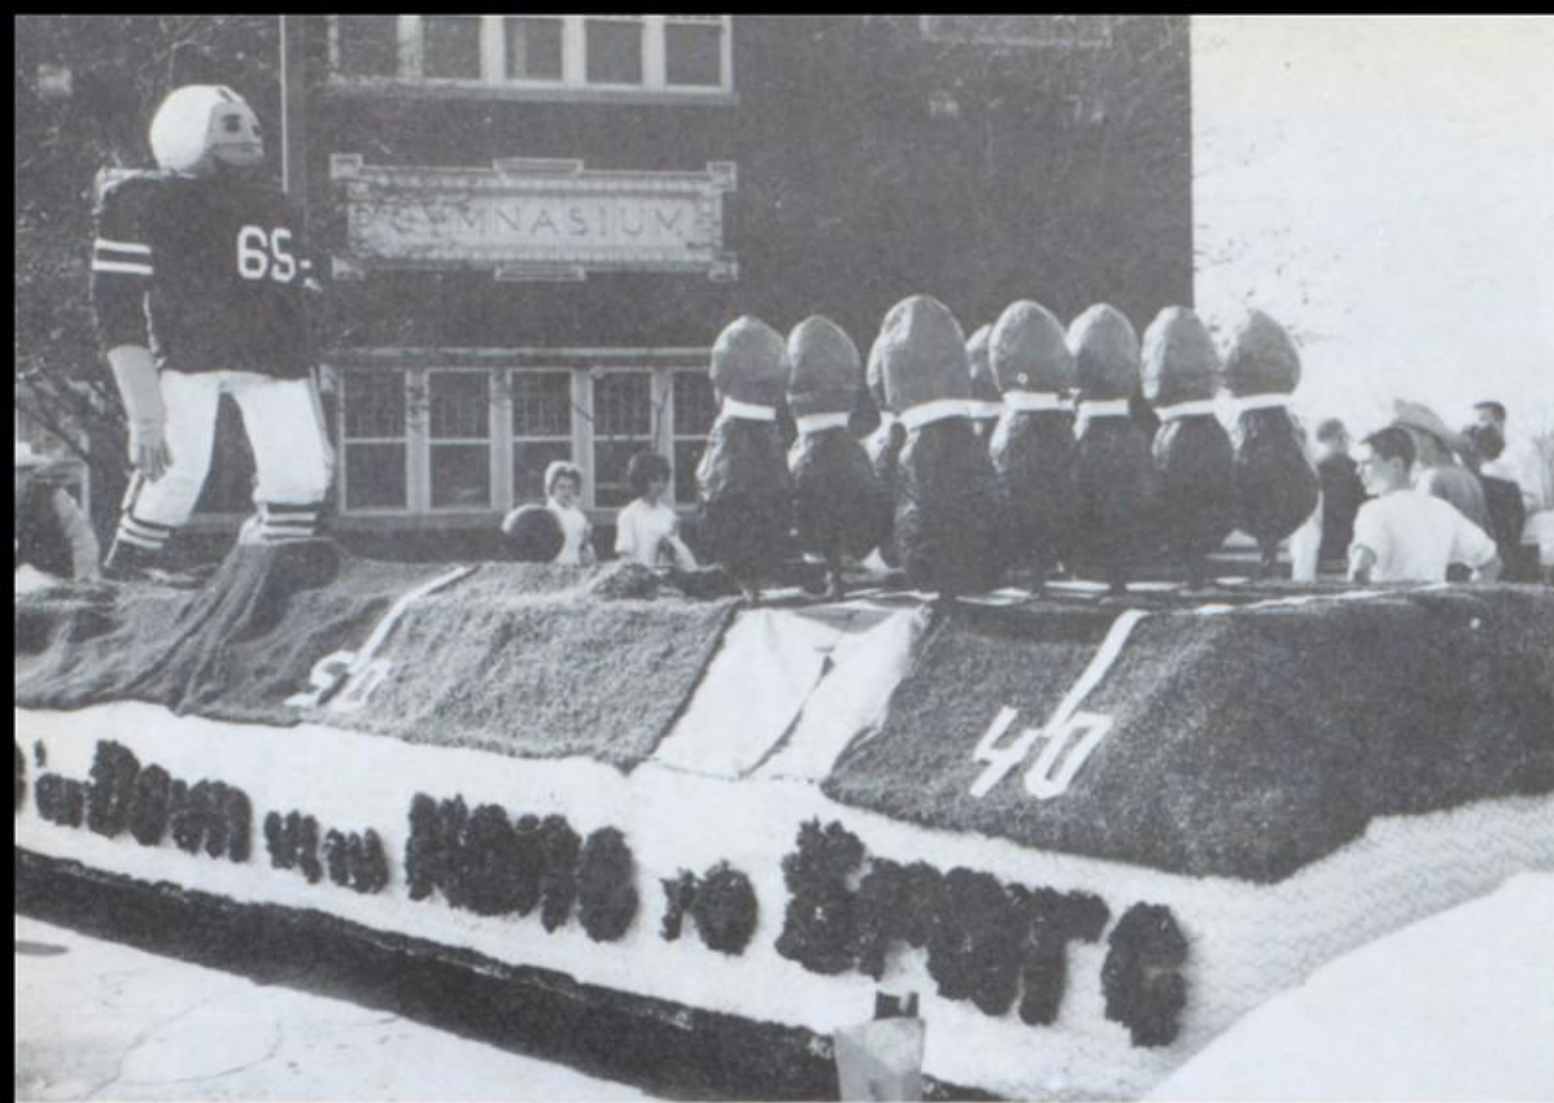

Among this year's fifteen cheerleaders, coached by Mrs. Guthrie, we had some of the outstanding representatives of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. In addition to studying and class work, the cheerleaders practiced hard to perfect new and old cheers, created skits for pep assemblies, and invented new songs to inspire school spirit in the student body.

Accustomed to hard work, and dedicated to the purpose of arousing school spirit to support our teams, the BTHS cheerleading squad led Belleville in its enthusiasm through both the football and basketball seasons.

The cheerleading squad performs in the stadium during the year's first pep assembly.

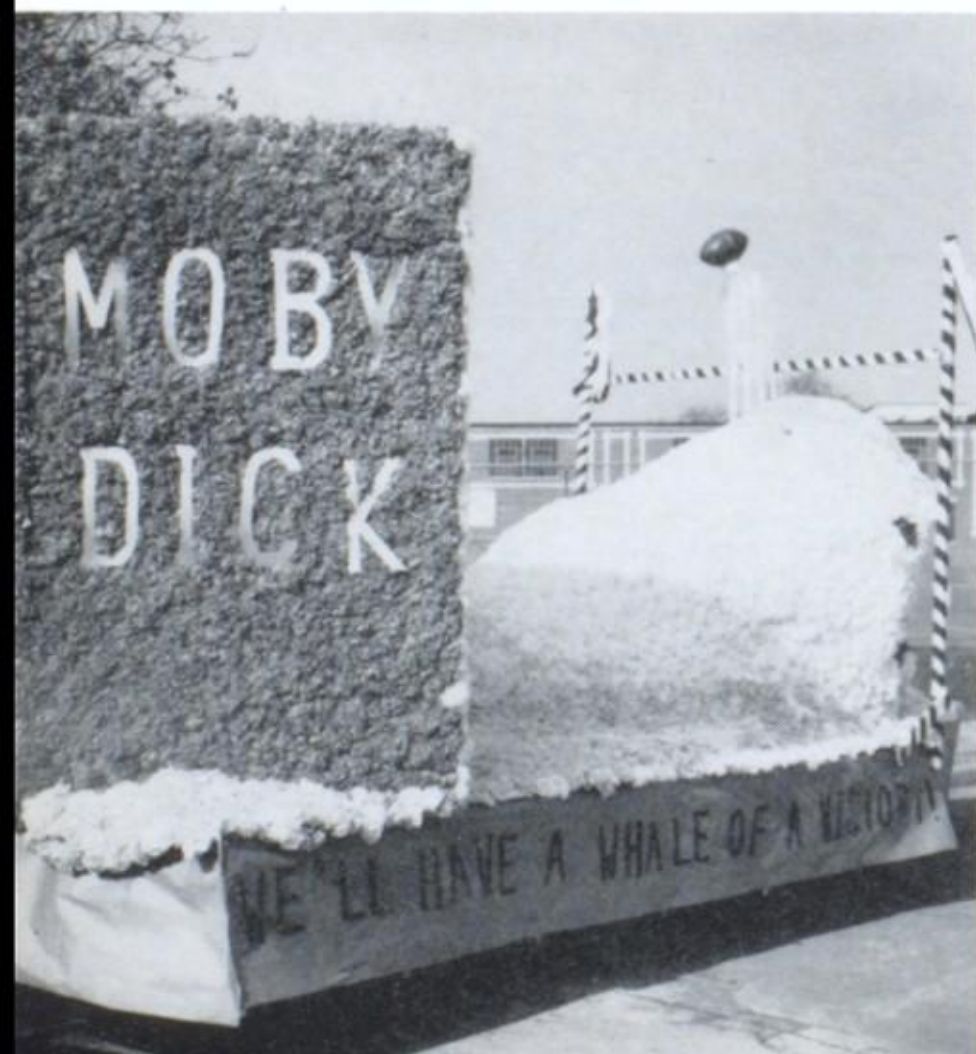

The sophomores presented "All Fall Down" and brought triumph to the school and their class.

School spirit at peak on Hobo Day

In anticipation of the traditional football game with East St. Louis, school spirit was at its highest peak on the day before Thanksgiving. For the annual Hobo Day celebration, students dressed in as much maroon and white as possible and the senior girls appeared in faded maroon jerseys.

The junior float, "Moby Dick" gave a whale of a boost to school spirit, excitement, and victory.

The class of 1965, having the best float, won Mr. Hobo for the second consecutive year.

The senior float, "For Whom the Bell Tolls," helped to ring in our victory.

The freshman float, "West Side Story," revealed skill and school spirit.

In the early afternoon the student body assembled in the gym for a pep assembly. Following the assembly the classes completed the final touches needed on their floats and then took their places behind them for the long march downtown to the square. The theme of this year's parade was movie and book titles. Hobo Day ended on the square with a pep rally and the announcement that the sophomores had won the float competition with "All Fall Down."

Talented members of the football team entertained at the Hobo Day assembly with a pre-game musical show.

Gary Kombrink, senior quarterback and vice-president of the Lettermen's Club, receives a football letter and congratulations from Coach Frala at the Lettermen's Banquet.

BTHS lettermen are leaders of school sports.

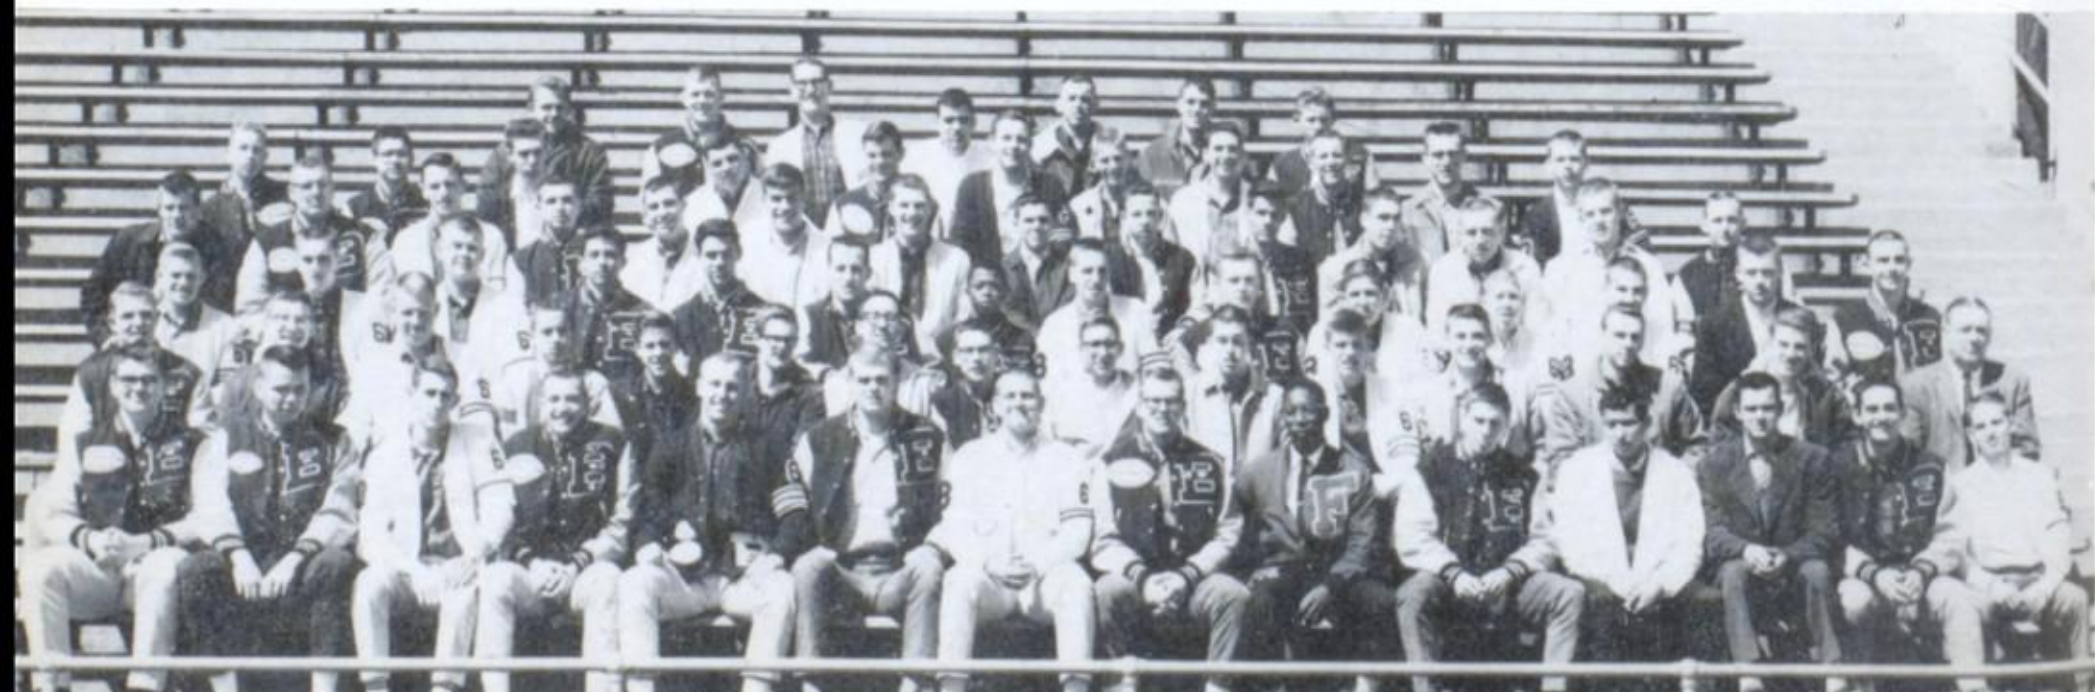

The Lettermen's Club, sponsored by Mr. Harpstreit, has as its members the outstanding athletes in our school. Eligibility for the club is obtained upon receiving at least one varsity letter in any school-affiliated sport.

Under the direction of the officers, Jerry Jowett, president; Gary Kombrink, vice-president; Les Lund, secretary; and Bob McKelvey, treasurer, the Lettermen sold candy and soda at all home football games and was the organization responsible for the Thanksgiving Dance and the selection of the football queen candidates. As decided by the vote of the student body, Queen Sherry Pierce, escorted by Gary Kombrink, and her court, consisting of Chris Baltz escorted by Kent Rogers, Sarah Beekman escorted by Bob McKelvey, Bobbie Ferrell escorted by Harv Ferguson, Lee Ann Kuehn escorted by Les Lund, Marilyn McCann escorted by Buz Imboden, and Nancy McKinley, escorted by Mel Trotter, presided over the dance.

“Now is the time, boys,
to make a big noise,
To show our loyalty
to our school,”

Our football team's only cry was "Victory, Victory, Belleville High!"

Our football team suffered through the long and exhausting summer practices, looking forward to the first big game and the beginning of their record-making fame. These practices were mandatory for all those who had the slightest hopes of playing on the great Belleville football team. Hard work, grueling exercise, and tests filled the day's schedule. This routine was broken only once, when center Mel Trotter, with his dummy-busting-blocking, cashed in on Coach Frala's four-year-old promise to suspend the remainder of the day's activities when a practice dummy was broken during a drill.

All of this hard training paid off with great dividends. The huge record-breaking crowds that were present at every Belleville football game, home and away, showed the enthusiasm that the 1963 football team sparked in their schoolmates and in the citizens of Belleville. These fans were not disappointed. They had an opportunity to watch the team ranked first in the area and third in the state in action. Considered by many to be the finest group of athletes assembled on one team in the state, the Belleville Maroons, in ten games, scored a total of 289 points while the total number of points scored against Belleville was 46.

Our victorious team was instructed, encouraged, and led by head coach Bob Frala, end and tackle coach Dean Renn, and center and guard coach Urban Baum. Thanks to their tireless efforts and unshakable confidence our team reached the peak of perfection. Our impervious line and undaunted backfield, a product of their coaching, was feared throughout Southern Illinois. The Belleville passing, blocking, tackling, and kicking was recognized as outstanding.

Perhaps the greatest game played and the greatest victory won by the Belleville Maroons was the 46-7 victory over East St. Louis in the annual Turkey Day Game. The enormous crowd that was packed into the stadium witnessed the first defeat of the East St. Louis Flyers by the Belleville Maroons since 1957. The victory bell, which was deservedly won back for Belleville, rang long into the night after the game, sounding the Belleville victory over the campus.

The Flyers defeat was Coach Frala's final seasonal triumph.

The idea, practice makes perfect, built an undefeated team.

Record is made at District Cross Country Meet.

Coach Harpstreit's harriers jaunted to many victories this year. Their terrific seasonal record showed that the long hours of practice after school pays off.

The highlights of the meets are recalled with much pride. In the first meet of the season, Belleville chalked up a victory over Lincoln with a score of 15 to 53. Belleville had another outstanding 15 to 48 victory in its match with Wood River. Our harriers took precedence over Collinsville and Granite City with scores of 18 to 39 and 25 to 39, respectively.

John Trowbridge of Alton set the record for the District Cross Country Meet in 1961 with a time of 10:03. This year, Alton's George Hunt and Belleville's Richard Koch both beat Trowbridge's record of the two-mile run. Hunt's time of 9:49.5 beat Koch's record breaking time of 9:53.7 by :04.2.

The first defeat Belleville has had in a dual meet in the last three years came when Cahokia beat Belleville with a score of 35 to 22. But this broken victory streak did not continue to bother them through the season. Our Maroons fought back hard and strong with lots of vigor and vim to place fourth in the South Western Conference at Edwardsville and fifth in the District Cross Country Meet at Alton. Richard Koch's hard efforts and determination finally paid off when he qualified to go to the state meet at Champaign.

Cross Country requires skill and stamina.

Make way for the Maroon and White.

This year our basketball team attained great heights. For the first time in the history of Belleville Township High School our Maroons captured the Centralia Tournament trophy. For the second year in a row, the Belleville cagers victoriously carried home the Dupo honors. One of the biggest victories was over our neighbors from Cathedral, as the Maroons captured the City Championship title with a 53-50 win.

Our great coach, Jerry Turner, boosted the team's abilities and skills to finish the season with 25 wins and only 4 losses. As was predicted before the season began, our 6'5" center, Dave Renn, received the high honor of being chosen as a member of the all-state team. He and Roger Bechtold were also chosen as members of the Southern Illinois team.

The starting squad consisted of Dellis Germann, 6' 1" junior forward; Roger Bechtold, 6' 1" senior guard; Jerry Jowett, 6' 5" senior forward; Roger Mueller, 6' senior guard; and Dave Renn, 6' 5" senior center.

Steve Smith, 6' 2" senior forward; Les Lund, 6' senior forward; Jim Goodwin, 5' 10" junior guard;

Jay Westcott, 6' 4" junior forward; Dave Hoepfinger, 5' 9" junior guard; Dave Englebretson, 6' junior forward; Tom Richter, 6' junior forward; Jim Zeiger, 6' 3" senior forward; and two up and coming sophomore guards, Glenn Pool and Dave Brauer, saw action and helped us out of a lot of tight spots.

The week of March 5 began many days of anxiety and tension for the team, coaches, students and faculty. It was the week of the Regional Tournament. On the night of Tuesday, March 5, Belleville stomped out Mascoutah in the East St. Louis gym with a 95-53 victory. Thursday, March 7, capacity crowds filled the East St. Louis gym. The spectators awaited a battle between the Maroons and Cathedral's Crusaders. Belleville fans were not disappointed, for the team brought home a 69-66 score in their favor. The following night the excitement mounted as the crowd endured a double overtime between Belleville and Lincoln of East St. Louis. However, this pressure did not shake our stalwart team. Belleville triumphed with an 80-79 victory and proudly carried home the Regional Championship trophy.

Forward Del Germann dunks a basket for BTHS.

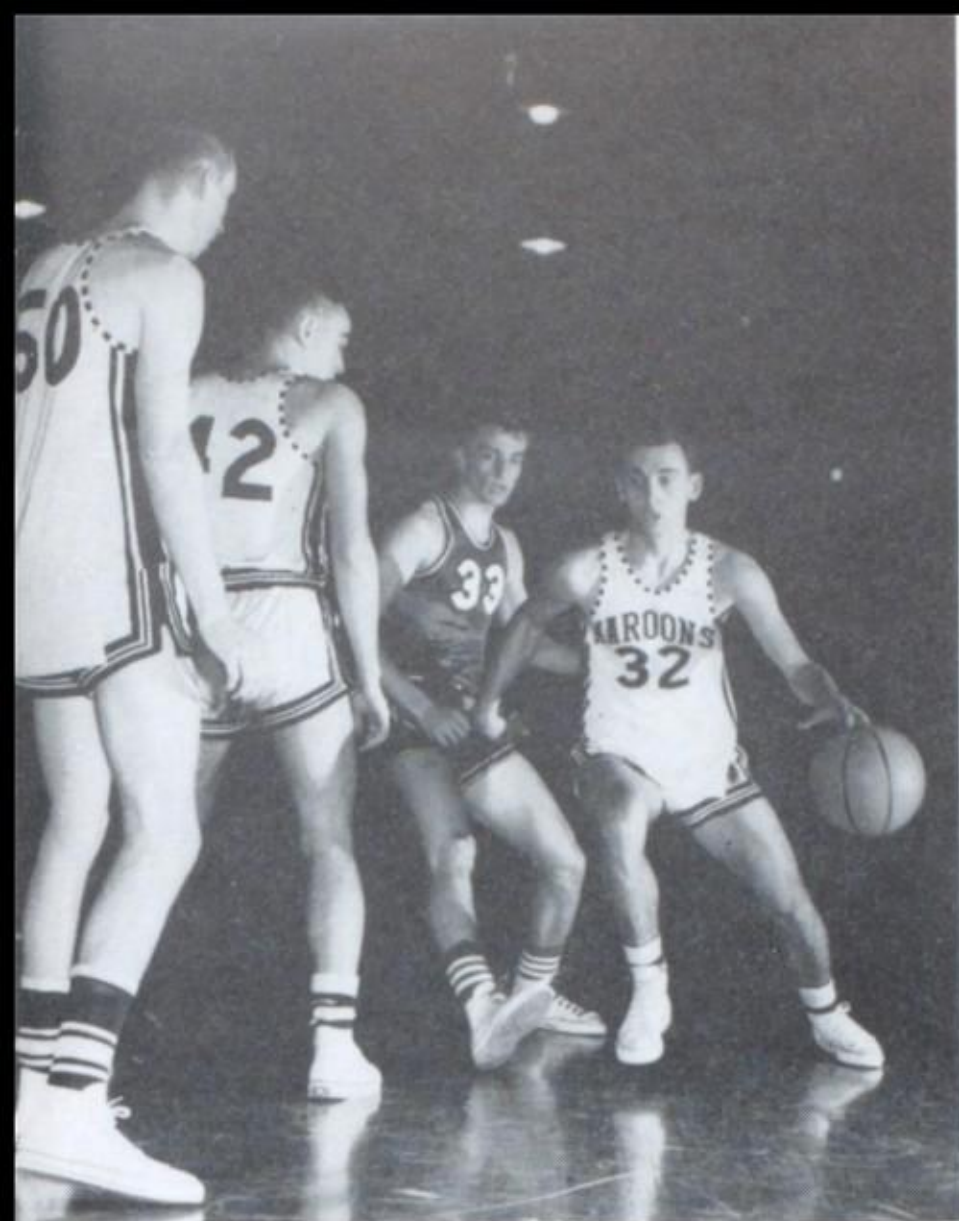

Forward Jerry Jowett's rebounding contributed to a fine 25-4 season record.

"Let's beat Collinsville"—BTHS cheerleaders lead the crowd to a frenzied climax as the team bursts on the floor.

This year the Maroon cagers held the top ranking position of number one in the state poll for a period of four weeks. To this honor was added the record of winning the regional tournament for the third year in a row.

Next year BTHS can expect some excitement from the varsity team because this year's junior varsity squad finished their season with eleven wins and only six losses. There were many exciting victories, such as the 46-26 over East St. Louis, the 54-28 over Wood River and the 78-38 over Waterloo.

Dave Englebretson, Dave Hoepfinger, Glenn Pool, and Jay Westcott, all of whom are also members of the varsity team, led the JV's team in point getting. Westcott topped them all with a high of thirty-three points in one game.

The sophomore team, with an eleven and six record, was led by Neal Holliday, Mike Wagner, Herschel Johnson, and Herb Milton. The team finished third in the tournament in Sparta.

Twelve wins and six losses were credited to the freshman team. The boys that made it possible were Mike Dartt, Joe Wiley, Clyde Kuehn, Jim Martin. The two victories over Lansdown, 82-52 and 69-31; and Freeburg 66-46 and 73-56 will not soon be forgotten.

Senior Jerry Davis, under the close supervision of coaches Rauth and Baum, was the only Maroon matman to achieve the right of advancement to the state tournament held March 1 at Champaign. By winning his first two matches, Jerry finished second in the sectional tournament held February 23 at Wood River. Senior Louie Gain finished in the runner-up position by posting wins in his first and third matches. Eight wrestlers advanced to the sectional tournament. Earlier the Maroons, through team effort, had won second place in the district competition held at Carbondale, February 16.

Junior Varsity grapplers offer bright prospects.

The junior varsity wrestlers, guided by Coach Baum, finished the 1962-1963 season with a commendable 6-2 record. Both losses were to Granite City. Like the varsity grapplers, the junior varsity team spent many hours after school practicing in the boys' gym. Each boy worked fervently to improve his technique and looked forward to wrestling on the varsity team in the future. Leading the way for the junior varsity grapplers were Don Cramer, Don Janklow, Jim Bollmeier, Roger Studer, Dave Erb, Dennis Witkus and Allen Rothenbuecher. These boys offer bright prospects for future Belleville wrestling teams.

Thinclads gain strength as season progresses.

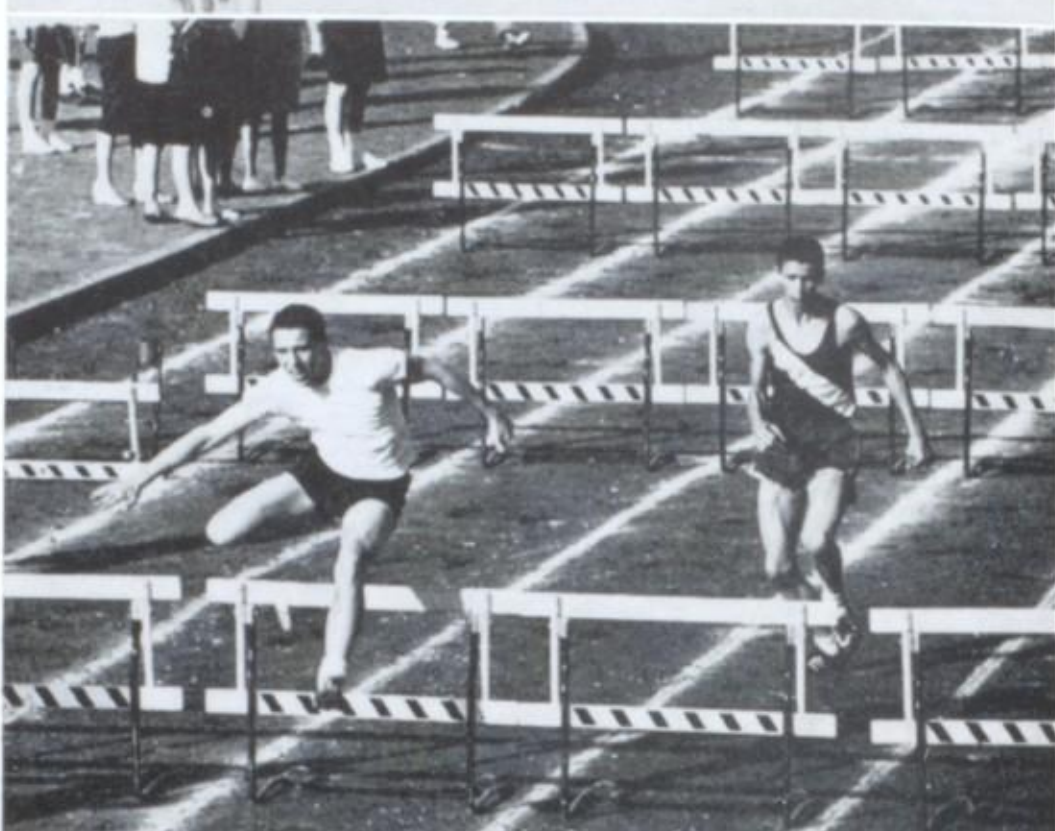

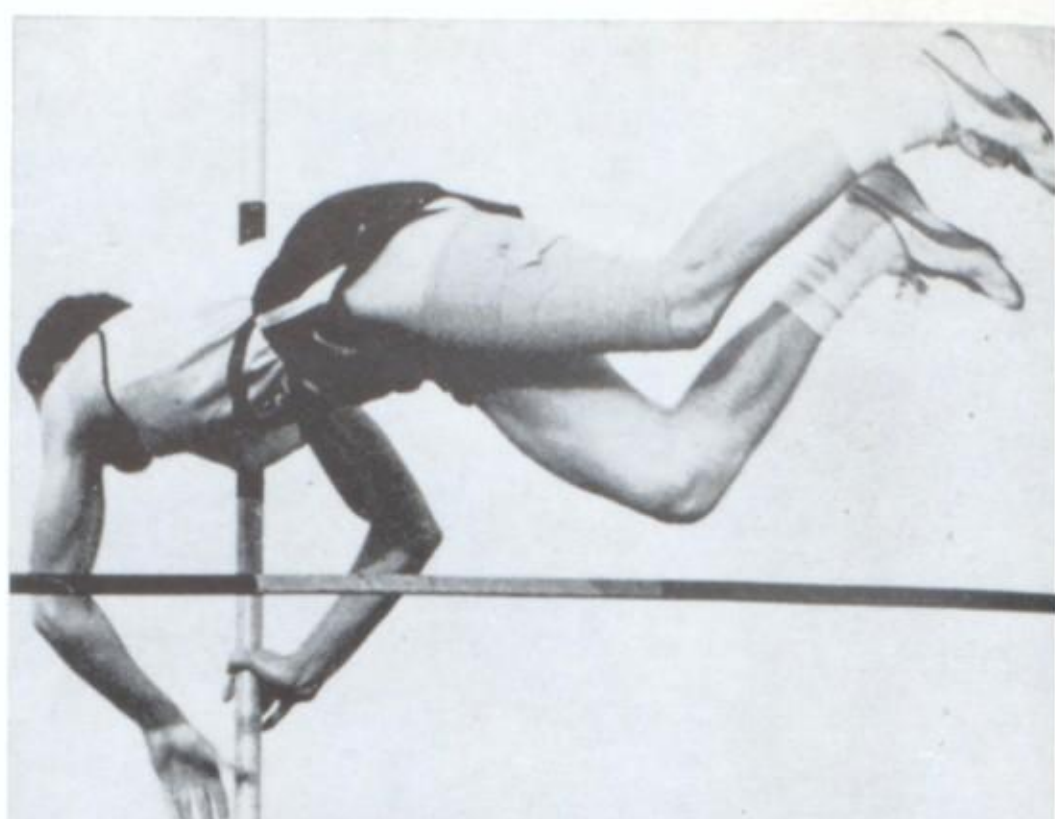

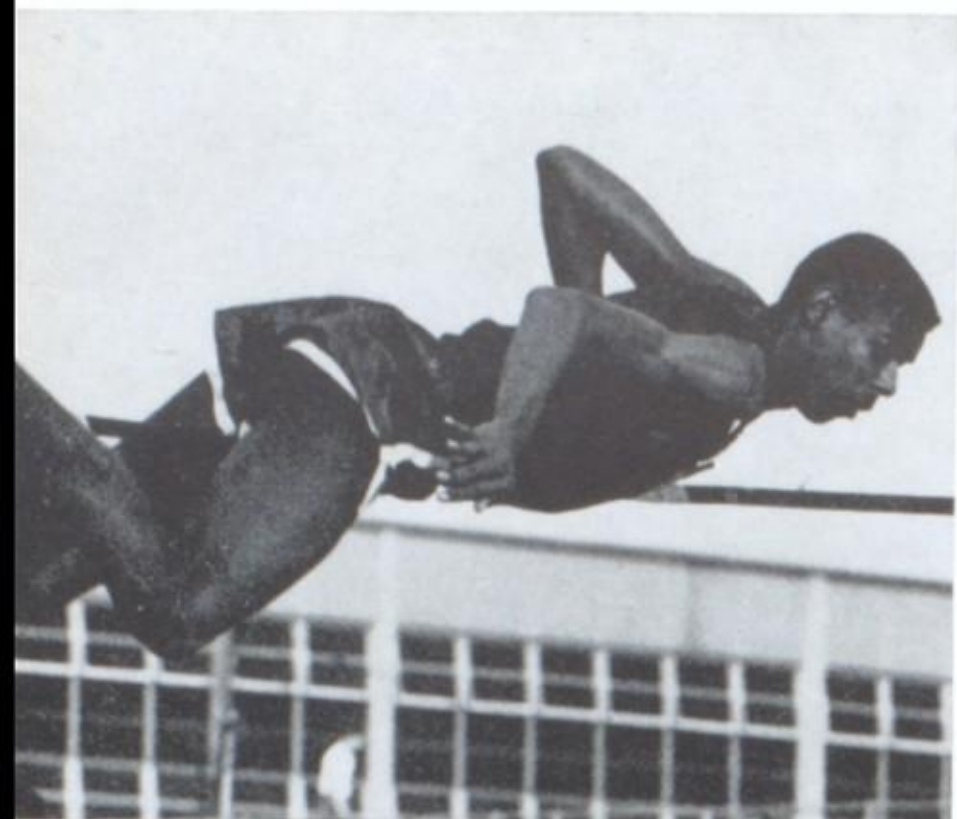

With the approach of spring, Coach Harpstreit organized his track prospects. Included in the seventeen varsity members were fourteen returning lettermen. Senior lettermen included: Frank Hackmann, quarter and half mile; Jim Jones, pole vault; Gay Uhrig, hurdles; Dick Walters, high jump; Don Windsor, discus; and Jim Zaring, shotput.

On March 29 the Maroons, opening the '63 season, were defeated by a powerful Lincoln team, 83 $\frac{3}{5}$ to 34 $\frac{2}{5}$. Closest Maroon challenger for a first in the track events was Glenn Pool, who bowed in the final ten yards of the 440. Other second-place winners were Frank Hackmann, 880, and Bill Beebe, mile. In the field events Jim Zaring pitched the shot 48' $\frac{2}{2}$ " with Burt Myers close behind. Don Windsor and Ron Thomas placed second and third respectively in the discus throw.

The Maroons had better luck on April 2 when they silenced the Cahokia Comanches by posting a 67 $\frac{1}{3}$ -50 $\frac{2}{3}$ triumph. Our thinclads dominated nine of the fourteen events. On April 5 the Maroons, copping a first in every event, raced to their second victory by outmatching Wood River 95-23. As the season progressed the Maroons worked and aimed for new records.

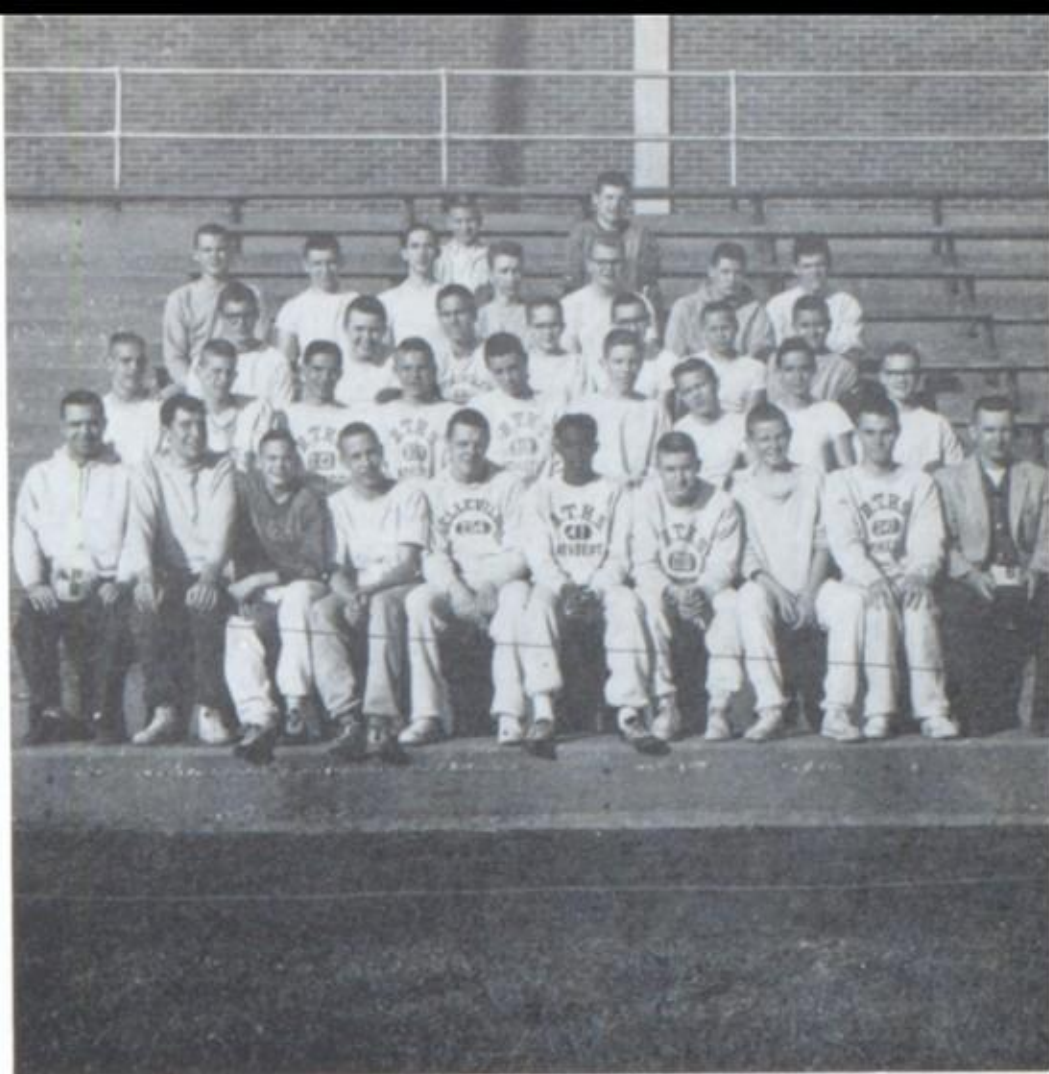

Coach Harpstreit ponders over a problem at one of the meets.

Freshman Joe Wiley easily clears the bar to place first. Putting forth all his energy, Gary Uhrig strains for a jump. Tom Koenig kicks in as he approaches home stretch in the 880 relay.

Belleville pole vaulter flies high to clear a first in his event. Speed, agility, and endurance marked the '63 Maroon hurdlers. Steve Young strains to put every ounce of strength in his throw.

our mighty Maroons on to victory after victory.

Again this year the Belleville baseball team was successfully led by Mr. Budde, head coach, and Mr. Turner, assistant. Belleville has long been noted for its power-hitting baseball team and the 1963 team was no exception. Belleville baseball fans had a chance to attend many exciting games and watch outstanding players sport their hitting, pitching, fielding, and running talents.

The Maroons met worthy opponents in their numerous games. A forecast of the season that could be expected from the Maroons was given in the opening contests. Victory was the Belleville cry when they carried home with the 4-2 decision over Waterloo, the 15-5 victory over Freeburg, the 4-3 defeat of Columbia, and the 7-4 win over Edwardsville.

The returning senior lettermen who led the baseball team this year were Harvey Ferguson, Roger Mueller, Roger Bechtold, Don Davis, Les Lund, Gary Kombrink, Steve Smith, and Richard Baltz. Returning underclassmen, Dellis Germann, Dave Englebreton, Roy Culbertson, and Jay Westcott, also added their talents to the team.

Richard Baltz winds up and prepares to send a fast pitch over the plate.

Catcher, Gary Kombrink, waits for the pitch over the plate.

Ken Peterson stands over the base, prepared to hit the man on third base into home.

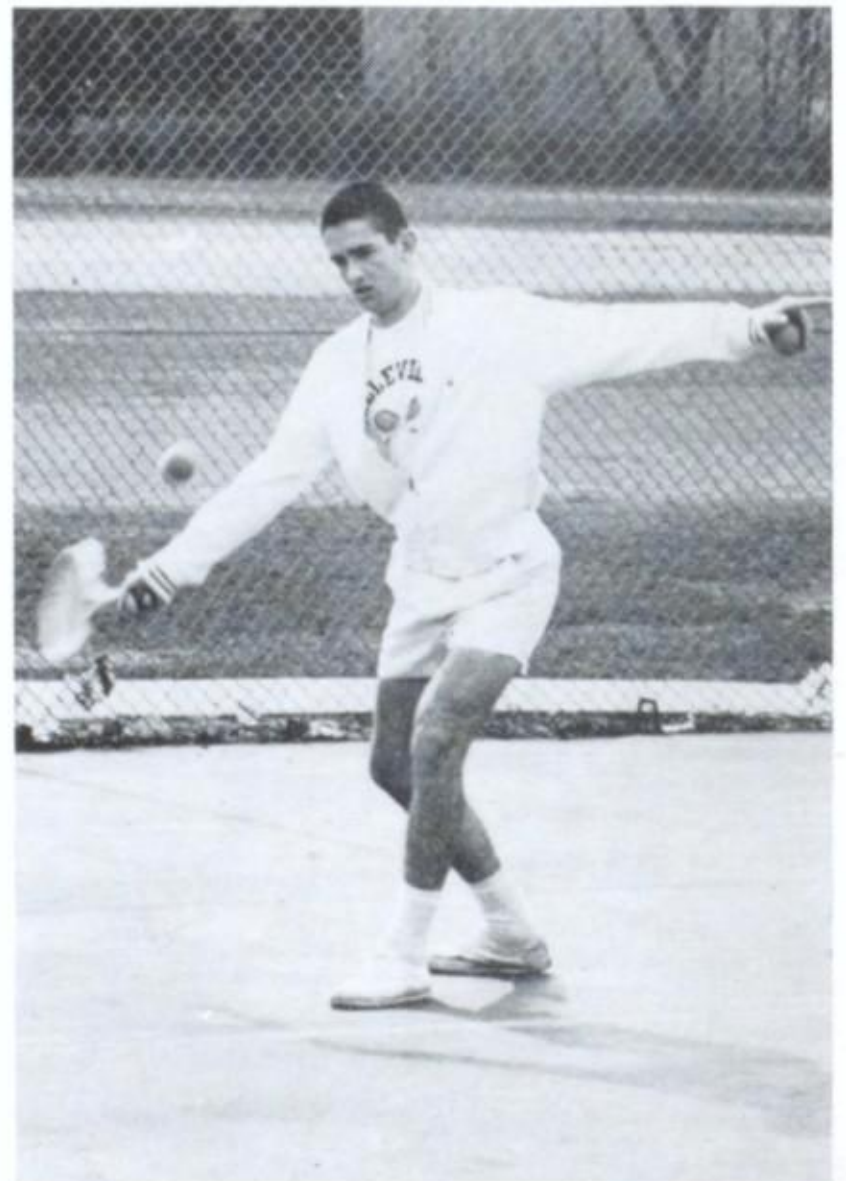

Tennis—Row 1: Dave Hertling, Frank Conners, Jay Haines, Chuck Hollman, Row 2: Tom Farquhar, Robbie Allison, Coach Rauth, Brian Smith, Earl Millard.

Conner and Smith are still tops in tennis.

Coach Wally Rauth had a fine tennis team to work with during the '63 matches. Frank Conner and Brian Smith, the boys who represented Belleville in the state meets last year and who have been one and two on the team since their freshman year, returned from last year's squad. Don Evon, Tom Farquhar, Robert Allison, Chuck Hollman and Earl Millard also returned to the squad to help give the tennis team a terrific seasonal record. This year's squad tried to beat last year's streak of fifteen victories.

Hard practice will put Brian Smith in excellent shape.

“for there is naught to fear,
the gang’s all here”

Joe Burnham, principal, Belleville Township High School.

Giving of his time and patience willingly, our principal, Mr. Burnham, has worked hard to make BTHS an outstanding educational institution. His friendly personality and cheerful smile gives our student body a fine example to follow.

One of the many unsung heroes of our school, Mr. Mullen helps Mr. Haberaecker direct the financial operation of the school. His quiet efficiency and constant effort has enabled the school to make the best use of available money for equipment and maintenance of buildings.

Dale Mullen, business manager, Belleville Township High School and Junior College.

The administrators organize the operation of the school and direct its program

Our new superintendent, Mr. Haberaecker, has shown the students of BTHS how to step into a new job, start it functioning anew, and make it successful. With the situation well in hand, he quickly won the admiration and confidence of his colleagues and stimulated their enthusiasm to push the bond issue, which was successful largely because of his efforts.

The seven members of the Board of Education, elected by the community, perform by law such duties as managing school tax money, setting up school policy, and providing teachers, buildings, and equipment to teach the young of the community. This year the Board conducted a bond issue to establish another campus to relieve overcrowded conditions at BTHS.

H. J. Haberaecker, superintendent of Belleville Township High School and Junior College.

We couldn't ask for a more dependable service staff

Our service staff consists of dedicated cafeteria help, capable office workers, and hard-working janitors. The services that they render to the students and faculty are necessary and we appreciate their dependability and efforts.

Lines on campus are a familiar sight

Throughout the years students of all classes look for helpful advice from their counselors.

Hungry students receive delicious food from the cafeteria workers. We all appreciate the fine work done by Mr. Harper and his staff.

One of the most familiar sights on our campus is that of long lines of students waiting for service at the counselor's office, the bookstore, or the cafeteria. A school of our size presents many individual wants and needs and each must be taken care of, no matter how unimportant they may seem to others. Sometimes the students are impatient, sometimes they are calm, but they are always greeted by a smiling face and an offer of help.

Lines are frequently seen in the bookstore, as students buy books, supplies, and tickets from the workers directed by Mrs. Graff.

The editor reflects . . .

As editor-in-chief of the 1963 Bellevinois, my appreciation must first be expressed to my fellow staff members and to those editors and managers who took the responsibility of leadership.

To Mahlon Hillard, Terry Allen, and the apprentice photographers, I wish also to express appreciation for excellent production of pictures.

To Miss Jane Hansleben the staff wishes to express gratitude. Without her help and guidance as faculty adviser this book could not have been produced.

To Mr. Harry Swain of Central Engraving and to Mr. Norman Semmelroth of Record Printing Company, we owe sincere thanks. Without their specific guidance, not only this year, but for their help to staffs during the past twenty-five years, we could not have produced this book.

To Spieth Studio we add words of appreciation for the individual pictures of our entire student body.

To our advertisers and business patrons of Belleville and Millstadt we owe gratitude for aiding in the financial development of our book.

The task of producing a yearbook such as ours is not a simple one. It requires innumerable hours of tedious hard work by all staff members; selling popcorn and programs, designing layouts, writing and rewriting copy, planning pictures, and proofreading galleys. To be a part of a school publication is an educational experience for a person in that it teaches him to think and to create.

This year our staff has taken pride in producing a book which we feel will be close to the school and to the student. We believe that through our academic and athletic achievements, as well as through the passage of our new school bond issue, the 1962-63 school year has been one of significance, not only for the student body, but also for the community. We sincerely hope that we have recorded an accurate as well as an interesting account of the year.
